ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR ZELIENOPLE

Third Boy Thought Dying; Driver Of Auto And Wife, Injured By Collision

(International News Service)

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Aug. 10.—"One more dive in a swimming pool, which made them late, and forced them to speed toward home in an effort to catch friends, had cost the lives of two boyhood chums today and left a third dying in the local hospital.

The three boys were speeding toward Pittsburgh, their home, when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed head-on into an automobile as they were trying to pass another car on a hill on the Butler pike, near Zelienople.

The dead: Anthony Goscomaki, 18, alleged driver of the motorcycle, and Stanley Sienkewicz, 19, both of Pittsburgh. The machine they struck was driven by E. J. Pfeifer of Pittsburgh, police reported. Leo Poszura, 19, third passenger in the motorcycle, lies critically injured in the Ellwood City hospital.

All three boys stayed a short time later at the Zelienople pool before setting out to join Poszura's family members of whom had started back to Pittsburgh earlier and whom the trio was beleived to have been attempting to overtake when the fatal crash occurred. Pfeifer and his wife Theresa suffered fractured ribs, and were taken to their home, police reported.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Both the drouth and heat wave were broken yesterday afternoon, when several showers of rain fell. There was a great sigh of relief heaved by some 97,000 people in Lawrence county, as a result.

Curiously enough, it was almost the same date last year, when the extreme hot weather of the summer ended. The first ten days of August were unusually hot in 1930, and then on August 10, the mercury dropped from 95 degrees to 76 degrees in a day's time. There was no rain however last year.

Local merchants are making preparations for a big time this week. The last three days of the week will be devoted to the annual Dollar Day sales event, when some mighty tempting bargains are going to be offered.

There ought to be some mighty big ears of corn exhibited at the various county fairs in the district this year. Pa Newc noticed some fine corn fields out along the Harlansburg road the other day, the ears appearing to be around a foot and a half in length and as big around as a man's arm.

There are a lot of nice weed patches around the city which

Three Missionaries Home From Africa After Five Years

Local Girls Return On Same Ship To Spend Furlough From African Country

After five long years of work in an old slave refuge and a negro republic of West French Africa south of the great Sahara, three women missionaries returned to their homes in New Castle Saturday and Sunday, on furlough.

By a strange coincidence Miss Sally Botham who has been stationed for the past five years in Sierra Leone, a province north of Liberia, boarded the same ocean liner on which Miss Ruth Bender and Miss Florence Brisbin were traveling to United States. It was their first meeting in five years and the trip from Africa to Norfolk, Virginia, was doubly enjoyable for the three.

"We certainly were thrilled to step on American soil again," Miss Bender told a News representative yesterday at her home on Harbor street. "One almost forgets what a wonderful country this is until you leave it for awhile."

Renew Acquaintances

Seeing their families and friends, looking over New Castle and sampling foods they haven't had for years, were some of the highspots of the arrival home they say.

"I was surprised at the appearance of New Castle. You can't believe how much it has changed," Miss Bender remarked. "There are new business places and new buildings all along Washington street. And was I delighted to see Grant street! It is paved beautifully."

Miss Brisbin and Miss Bender were met in Norfolk, Va., by Miss Bender's parents and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Bender and Mrs. Carl Bender. Mrs. Carl Bender is Miss Brisbin's sister. They motored home and arrived here shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday.

Miss Botham continued on to New York City from Norfolk and arrived in New Castle by train at about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. She is staying with her father, William Botoham, at the William Alexander home at 910 West Washington street.

The arrival of Sally Botham in this city marks the fourth mission-

Woman Refuses To Comply With Bandits Demands And Suffers Gun Wound

BANDITS LOOT HOME OF $500

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—Displaying ruthless thug methods, four bandits early today walked up to the home of John Young in Penn township, near here, held up and robbed Young of $500 and shot and wounded Mrs. Young, 33, when she refused to obey the command of the robbers to "get into the house".

According to Young's report to police, he and his wife were sitting on the porch when the four men with drawn revolvers approached the house and commanded the couple to retreat into the home. Although Young complied, his wife refused. One of the bandits fired, the bullet entering her shoulder near the neck and lodging in the left side.

At Westmoreland hospital, where the victim was taken, the injury was said to be not serious.

After the shooting, the four men walked into the home and compelled Young to stand facing the wall. Rifling the home of $500 in cash, Young told police, the four fled the

Frank Port Is Sentenced To Penitentiary

Gets From Two To Five Years This Morning On A Charge Of Arson

FIRE OCCURRED ON ELLWOOD ROAD

Frank Port of Ellwood City, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Western penitentiary for a term of from two to five years by Judge Hildebrand this morning, on a charge of arson. Port was convicted of burning a house on the Ellwood-New Castle road.

In pleas by his attorneys for leniency, it was stated that Mr. Port, while admitting the burning, claimed that it was accidental. According to Port he had heard that the plumbing in the house was being stolen, and with two other men, had gone to investigate. He had opened a side door of the house with a skeleton key and struck a match. This was followed by an explosion and the house was burned.

Port held a second mortgage on the house, which was insured, but it was claimed by him that he did not know that the insurance policy covered his mortgage. At the trial it was testified that some men who arrived on the scene shortly after the fire started, looked in a window and saw a five gallon can sitting in the dining room. This was later found in the ruins in the cellar.

Exactly what caused the explosion was not clearly brought out at the trial. The defense claimed that it might have been caused by sewer gas. The prosecution maintained that the house had been set on fire.

When three men arrived at the fire they claimed that a car was parked in a drive way in which three other men left. Port was later arrested as one of the men who had left.

Wickersham Report Roundly Condemns Police Third Degree

By GEORGE E. DURNO,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—President Hoover's law enforcement commission today roundly condemned the time-honored American police custom of "third-degreeing" confessions out of prisoners as "shocking in its character and extent, and violative of American traditions and institutions".

In a report to the White House revealing the "naked, ugly facts," concerning this brutal and lawless practice, the commission called upon public opinion to crystallize and effectively outlaw the rubber hose and the copper's fist from the star-chamber sessions in the nation's police stations.

Extends to Court Room

This "lawlessness in law enforcement" extends even into the court room, and men and women facing the bar of justice find themselves subjected to unjust and unfair treatment at the hands of judges and prosecuting attorneys in violation of their constitutional guarantees, President Hoover was informed.

"There has been no thorough going revision of criminal procedure in the United States since the foundation of our constitutional government," said the commission's report. "It is high time there should be in every state, as well as in congress, a careful study of the subject and the adoption of some thorough-going reconsideration of the laws affecting prosecution for crime.

"We earnestly recommend the consideration by congress of a code

Chancellor Bruening Launches Campaign To Suppress Communist Party

By EDWARD L. DEUSS

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Encouraged by the rout of German radicalism witnessed in the failure of the referendum aimed at dissolution of the Prussian Diet, the government of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening today launched a campaign to result in a concerted attempt to suppress the Communist party in Germany.

Appalled by the series of shooting and bombing outrages, claiming possibly eighteen lives and more than 100 injuries, which accompanied the Plebiscite voting in Prussia, the police posted a reward of $5,000 for information concerning a "secret red terrorist organization" believed chiefly responsible for the acts of violence.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Almost complete returns of the Prussian Plebiscite, through which reactionaries sought to discredit the German government's course during the economic crisis, gave an overwhelming vote of confidence today to Premier Otto Braun and indirectly to Chancellor Bruening.

The Plebiscite, which was sponsored by the Steel Helmets, an organization of war veterans opposed to further payment of reparations by Germany, failed by more than $3,500,000 votes. It called for the dissolution of the Prussian Diet and

Former New York Veterinarian Will Spend Thirty Days In Jail

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Dr. William J. Doyle, formerly a veterinarian, must serve 30 days in jail for refusing to tell the Hofstadter legislative committee with whom he split $1,300,000 in fees which he is alleged to have collected during the nine years he practiced before the New York City board of standards and appeals, the court of appeals ruled today.

Dr. Doyle had refused to answer the questions put to him by the Hofstadter committee on the ground that it would tend to incriminate him. Further, he charged that the legislature could not give the Hofstadter committee the right to grant immunity to witnesses.

Judge Contests In Many Counties

Twenty-Five Counties In State Have Judicial Elections On This Fall

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—Judicial contests in 25 of the 67 counties of the state at the fall election will furnish much of the interest turned on candidates for local, county and state office in the September primary. In virtually every county where judges are to be chosen there is a spirited contest for places on the bench.

Leading all others in interest, perhaps, is the race in Allegheny county, where 25 candidates are out for seven places on the court of common pleas and 15 others seek to fill the four vacancies on the county court.

Philadelphia presents much the same picture, with enough candidates on hand to fill all and more of the judicial places there and half a dozen other counties are being watched for their judicial handicaps.

The last legislature split up the old Mifflin - Huntingdon - Bedford county district, creating two new districts in Mifflin and Bedford. In the latter county Gov. Gifford Pinchot appointed Judge Benjamin F. Madore to the place and he has filed papers as a candidate for election. Contesting the post, however will be five other candidates, all of whom have filed both Democratic and Republican nominating papers, as has Judge Madore.

No Judge was appointed in Mifflin county but three candidates have filed for the post there.

Northumberland county will also have a spirited contest, with six candidates in the running and in the Snyder-Union district five aspirants have elected to enter the race. The post of associate judge in Snyder county alone has drawn six candidates.

In Erie county, with one vacancy on the orphans' court to be filled, four candidates have appeared for the post and spirited fights are indicated in Lycoming, Cambria and Cumberland counties for judicial places.

Greensburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—Working swiftly in the latest outbreak of district thuggery—the shooting of a woman during a holdup and robbery of a private home—State police today arrested five Pittsburghers, ranging in age from 17 to 30, and held them for questioning in the holdup of John Young, of Penn township late last night.

State police gave the names of those arrested as Paul Hebling, 18, of Hazelwood, Pittsburgh; Fred DeMarco, 19, Wiliam Maloney, 17, James Cardon, 25 and A. B. Baklarz, 30. All five confessed to the hold up attack, State police said.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

should be cut. It's about time for the hay fever season to start.

The rains of Sunday and today will be welcomed by the golfing fans as the extreme dry weather has dried up the fairways on the various courses, making it hard to get under a ball.

The rains of the past two days have filled the Japanese beetle traps half full of water, and it would have been sort of hard on any of the beetles that would have tumbled into them during the night.

Earl Patton of the Croton fire department has raised some four o'clocks in the garden of the station that would certainly make any garden show judge sit up and take notice. They are large and perfect and are in pretty shades of orange, blue, pink and lavender.

Pa Newc's heart was touched this morning by the sight of a pretty mite of a kitten, sitting forlornly on the front steps of the Y. W. C. A. The kitten never moved from its position on the steps and looked appealingly at each person entering the building. If it is still there when Pa Newc goes home to dinner it may get a home, and a catnip mouse.

Miss Ruth Bender of Harbor street, who returned home from Africa where she has been serving as a missionary since 1921, brought with her several wicker children's chairs made by negro boys at the mission in Blebo, Liberia. She also brought several cocoanuts, the outside shell of which had not been removed. A neighbor boy was quite interested in the cocoanuts Saturday, as they were the first he had seen with the outside shell.

If you were on he Perry highway at any time yesterday you would have a very good idea of how heavy traffic can be. The highway must have carried thousands of automobiles to their destinations.

The highway under construction from New Wilmington to Mercer is coming along fine and part of the cement has been laid, Pa Newc is told. When that road is complete it will mean a lot to New Castle, Mercer and New Wilmington. It is a long needed link between the two counties.

Pa Newc noticed a boy on Washington street this morning attired in a raincoat, galoshes and a bathing cap.

after inspecting the cavalry camp, will present the medal at a review of 2,000 troopers of the 52nd. After presentation of the medal, the cavalrymen will pass in parade before the Governor, their commanding officer and other staff officers at a walk and a trot.

Will Award Medal

Usually, cavalry reviews are held at three gaits—the walk, trot and canter—but the ceremony today will include only the trot and walk because of the unseasoned condition of most of the mounts. Horses were assigned to troopers Sunday and many of the men were mounted for the first time at today's drill.

The Reilly medal was provided by the late Gen. William Moffatt Reilly, of Philadelphia, who died Feb. 29, 1896. It is awarded annually to the guardsman with longest period of service not previously a recipient.

Last year the medal went to Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., Commander of the 28th Division and in 1929 it was awarded to Brig. Gen. George E. Kemp, now retired.

Vets Enroute Home

Troopers of the 104th Cavalry, commanded by Col. E. J. Stackpole, of Harrisburg, will lead the review this afternoon. The regiment includes troops from Harrisburg, Lewistown, Carlisle, Waynesboro, Punxsutawney, Tyrone, Altoona, Clearfield and Elizabethville.

Following will be the 103rd Cavalry, led by Col. Arthur Colahan, of Philadelphia, with troops from Lewisburg, Sunbury, Lock Haven, Northumberland, Bellefonte and Philadelphia.

Veterans of the Society of the 28th Division were en route home from the camp today after holding their first reunion. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Muir, retired, of Baltimore, war-time commander of the "Iron-Division," was re-elected president of the society. Vice presidents elected were Maj. Gen. William Price, Jr., Chester, Maj. John Shenkel, Pittsburgh, and Maj. Herman Early, Harrisburg. Col. Frank A. Warner, Pittsburgh, was renamed secretary-treasurer.

ary from Africa spending furloughs at their homes here. Miss Cecelia Lewis of Marshall avenue who is stationed in Sierra Leone with Miss Botham under the Christian and Missionary Alliance board, has been home for a number of months.

Enthusiastic Over Work

Of their work among the negro natives in Africa the missionaries are intensely enthusiastic. The work is tedious but the results are gratifying. Upon the termination of their furloughs they expect to return to their respective fields and spend many more years carrying on the pioneer work of educating and leading the natives toward Christian lives.

"We conduct classes early each morning, usually at about six o'clock, and they are attended by about fifty children," said Miss Bender, explaining that the reason for the early hours was that the heat later in the day was so intense that it was an impossibility for the children to study.

They are taught the English language in order that they can speak and write it. Some of the children are quick to learn and before long are able to speak the English language quite fluently. They have a much harder time to write the language, as their own language is never written.

After classes the children are assigned to different chores around the mission, and they delight in doing their work in a way to please the missionaries. It is the job of several little girls to care for the chickens and at night to carefully put them in their boxes and place them on a large table in the mission, in order to protect the chicks from the "drivers."

Asked what "drivers" are, Miss Bender explained to the writer that they are ants that come in vast armies and devour everything in their way.

"We lost a whole flock of chickens when the drivers came one day. They come together in formation and the only thing we can do is to get out bamboo torches quickly and beat them away. We can't kill very many but we can make them change their course."

Negro Republic

Liberia, where Miss Bender and Miss Brisbin are located, is a negro republic and was formed during the time of slavery in our country by some of our citizens as a home for freed slaves from the United States. It's capital, Monrovia, was named after one of our presidents. It covers an area of 40,000 square miles and has a negro population of 2,000,000. Blebo, where the two missionaries have their headquarters, is a two days walk irom the coast town where they receive their mail. After the mail arrives at the coast town and the missionaries send for it, it is five days before it can be gotten to Blebo.

Sierra Leone, north of Liberia, is a province in the British sphere of influence covering about 4,000 square miles and with a population of 85,000 negroes. This place where Miss Botham and Miss Lewis are stationed was founded during the time when the slave trade was flourishing and was intended as a place of refuge for negroes rescued from slave ships.

There are few white people in either province and the civilization of the natives has been largely in the hands of missionaries.

"They have always been superstitious people," Miss Bender continued, "I have often seen a native pass a tree and noticing that the leaves were blowing in a rather unusual way, would hurry home and get rice and a bowl of water to place at the foot of the tree to please the devil. But this is the practice among the older people, not the young ones. The young are casting aside the old superstitutions."

Rice is the chief item of diet for the negroes, although they raise some sweet potatoes and other vegetables for side plates. After the first several months of rice the missionaries became rather tired of it and took to canned goods. A bag of peaches bought at Norfolk upon their arrival in America, tasted fine to the three workers from the tropics.

They had some pineapples gathered this year at the mission and the cows spied the fruit and ate all but two.

Their time limit for staying in this country is not yet known by the three young women but they will probably stay twelve month before returning to their mission posts.

WICKERSHAM REPORT ROUNDLY CONDEMNS POLICE THIRD DEGREE

of federal criminal procedure to meet these evils. Such a code might serve as a model for many of the states whose procedure offers especially favorable machinery for the failure of criminal justice."

In searching out facts about the "third degree," the Wickersham body had personal investigations made in 15 major cities of the country. Only four—Cincinnati, Boston, Philadelphia, and El Paso— were given clean bills of health. In ten—New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Newark, N. J., and Detroit—the brutal method was found to be a common practice. Definite judgment was withheld as to Dallas.

Eleven Changes

Eleven specific changes were proposed in the appended report of the commission's investigators — Zechariah Chaffee, Jr., Walter H. Pollak and Carl S. Stern—and while the commission did not adopt all of them in their own report they asserted they called for "careful consideration," these suggestions included:

1. Establishment of a statutory minimum time for the preparation of the defense.
2. Adoption by the state of the federal statutory rule by which a judge is automatically disqualified from sitting when the accused files an affidavit alleging facts sufficient to constitute a real possibility of bias
3. Requirement that the state shall seasonably furnish a list of its witnesses to the accused.
4. Representation of the accused by counsel in all cases unless the penalty is very light or unless the accused has definitely refused counsel.
5. The inclusion of qualified persons on jury lists regardless of their color.
6. Simplification and clarification of the law relating to the admissibility of evidence of offenses other than that for which the accused is on trial.
7. Allowance of comment upon the failure of the accused to testify.
8. Abolition of payment of judges, prosecutors and court officials from fines and costs.
9. Giving to the trial judge power to comment on the weight of the evidence.
10. Giving of power to appellate courts to reduce sentences without a new trial.
11. The grant of power to appellate courts to grant new trials if required by justice whether any exception has been taken or not in the court below.

THE term "command of the seas" has become obsolete or, if if not obsolete, obsolescent. No nation is goined to be permitted to enjoy the "command of the seas." The United States will not consent to its commerce being subject to the whim of some other power; and Great Britain herself will soon be able to see that the old theory of the "command of the seas" will work to her detriment quite as much as that of any other power.

It has been said that Great Britain would perish without her foreign commerce. The United States, if it would not actually perish, would suffer to such an extent without its foreign commerce that the American people would not for a moment abide by the result, but whether it is more acute and more direct in the case of the one or the other makes very little difference, because the moving, controlling question is how to protect our commerce against the inroads of those who may be engaged in war.

Great Britain must yield her dominance of the seas, come to an understanding as to disarmament or build against the United States. The latter she would not do and knows perfectly well she can not do.

In the past the highway of nations, the common inheritance of all people, knew no law save the law of force. In the future it must know no law save the law of right. It must be the "great common," the great free thoroughfare of the world, in fact as well as in name.

LOWER STEAMSHIP FARES

Atlantic steamship lines, suffering with other business from the depression, are going after more business with bargain prices. Bookings have fallen off tremendously this summer in spite of everything the lines could do to make ocean travel more attractive. Other inducements having failed, they are using the attraction of cut prices.

First and third-class rates share the sharpest reductions because this business has fallen off more than second class and tourist third class trade. The stock market crash and depression yanked many free spenders out of first-class cabins and planted them in cheaper quarters or upon the solid ground. Immigration restrictions and the depression virtually annihilated the steerage and third-class business, once a source of rich profit for the steamship companies.

The low third-class rate, which will allow a round trip to Europe for as little as $131, is intended to encourage those of alien birth to visit their native homes and so partially offset the losses brought about by the drop in immigration.

Although they will encourage more fall and winter voyaging, the reduced rates will have their real test next summer, since the majority of American summer tourists are already overseas or will be before the new rates go into effect.

ONLY TEN YEARS AGO

An excellent piece of fiction of recent date is built about a series of letters that came to the solemn attention of a group of business men who were laying out a publicity campaign. They found that numerous banking and finance experts were quite sure that the lull in business might last a long time. Then it was discovered, as the story unfolded, that the letters were written in 1921 and that they exactly fitted into conditions in 1931, with the difference that all of the 1921 prophecies of evil petered out.

This story sent us scurrying to the files, and, sure enough, experts were quite sad in 1921. Finance and industry were gloomy. The word normalcy was much used as something we should get back to. It was a drab world. Most everyone was out of a job and the tightwads were tighter than ever. The farmer was low and crops were in doubt.

Then followed ten years—the best ten years we have ever known—with more square meals per capita, more motors per state, more railroad prosperity than ever, more jobs than the country had ever known. And while we were looking at musty files, we went back 50 years and the story was the same. Just about every decade had its rise and fall. It was almost astronomical in its fixed recurrence. Normalcy is still a good word, and we are getting back to it.—St. Louis Times.

A LORD GOES TO JAIL

British courts have just proved again that a million pounds can be convicted and sent to prison. Lord Kylsant, British shipping magnate, was convicted of a crime and sentenced to a year's imprisonment in spite of his great wealth and social and business position. He had committed an offense against society and nothing could save him from paying the penalty.

Lord Kylsant was convicted, among other things, of having falsified the balance sheets of the Royal Mail shipping combine, of which he was chairman. Through his manipulations, he placed his company in the position of misrepresenting its financial condition to the investing public.

In punishing this man the British courts have not increased public confidence in the integrity of business and business men, but they have shown that it is dangerous to deceive the public. The public may wonder how many other balance sheets are falsified and invest more cautiously, but it will look for the raising of moral standards among business executives as a result of his lordship's sojourn behind the bars.

There is no evidence that the laws and courts of England demand more honesty in business than do those of the United States, the large number of convictions of wealth Americans who were too free with the dollars of others indicating that the reverse might be true. A million dollars can also go to jail.

Never Mind the Tact!
I'll Take Frankness
It Doesn't Hurt So Much

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Is my nose red? Is it too big? Is it too small? Do my ears stick out? As I getting fat? Is one of my garters broken? Don't my socks match? Don't I pronounce my words correctly? Did I mess up that funny story and mangle the point in telling it? Is a button off my vest? Is my shirt tail out? Have I been making an ass of myself?

Well, don't be tactful. . . . Tell me if you must, but please—oh, please!—don't beat around the bush. . . . Be gruff! Be brutally frank! Cut deep and wipe away the blood! But don't be polite in that devious way, don't try to spare my feelings, don't try to be so tactful! I can stand the frankness, but I can't endure that TACT!

I can eat spinach. At a pinch I can get through a helping of eggplant. I can even pile out of bed in the middle of the night to answer a wrong phone number and not get too mad about it. I've been cheated sometimes, too, and been able to admire the cheater if he was clever enough. I've been imposed on and bluffed out and ignored, and occasionally I've shrugged my shoulders and been philosophical about it. . . . But TACT blows me up and makes me furious.

Half the time when you're "tactful" you're assuming that the other fellow can't stand the truth. You're saying to yourself, "I mustn't let him know, I must spare his feelings." You inform him very deviously that his insurance policy does not cover the accident, that his house burned down while he was away for the week-end, that your dog got into his garden and chewed up his choicest dahlia—and then you try to get a block away before he completely understands the meaning of the bad news.

That's supposed to be tact!

But it isn't—it's just foolishness! The dictionary says that tact is "a nice discernment of the best course of action under given circumstances." It also defines tact as "a peculiar ability to deal with others without giving offense.' But it does NOT call it "pussy-footing" or "beating around the bush". Tact can also be speaking right up, blurting it out. It can be a frank compliment, an open criticism.

If I can have my choice, I'll take the Modern Frankness and you can keep your Old-Fashioned Tact. I never did like it, and I don't know anybody that ever did—when it was used on them!

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE POPULAR WAIL

We didn't go to Europe whenthe stocks were soaring high,
We didn't rush the newest things in motor cars to buy,
When other folks were running off to sail the seas in ships,
We didn't have the money to afford such lovely trips.

We didn't make a fortune in the days when times were good,
We didn't build a swimming pool, though oft we wish we could.
I remember very clearly what seemed strang to other men,
To a thousand dollars seemed a lot of money then.

In the days when all our neighbors boasted they were millionaires,
And the common converation was, "I bought a thousand shares,"
We seldom sought the bright lights where the painted ladies smirked,
For the children's care and comfort I am very sure we worked.

Now we're wailing trips to Europe which, of course, we've never had,
And we're telling all the neighbors that the times are very bad.
Though our lives have changed but little, we're still working every day,
But we speak of the depression in a sad and mournful way.

ACT YOUR AGE

No matter how good a sport you may be if you are old enough to be a parent of any member of a certain crowd you are not entirely welcome at their gatherings.

Because you are willing and able to do the things in which your younger folks engage and are a liberal spender you may think your presence is appreciated.

Mr. Man, don't flatter yourself.

If you pay for expensive entertainment you may be tolerated as an easy mark but that is all.

Often some people much older than a majority of a crowd are annoying in their efforts to be as young as the younger of a gay crowd.

Why don't you mingle with your own crowd - persons of your own age?

Is it because you have not advanced with your years?

Is it because your actions make you shunned by those of your years?

Grow up.

You'll reach second childhood soon enough.

Liquor was a great evil so we prohibited the sale of it. Now, due to the moral laxity that began during the war and the lure of forbidden fruits, it has become a greater evil. Some years ago the cities got ashamed of licensed prostitution and closed their bawdy houses. Now the women live in hotels, next door to respectable transients, and ply their ancient trade without police supervision. Politics Held Responsible For Shooting Of Children

Alliance With Forces Of Gangdom Charged By Country As New York Is Declared To Challenge Chicago As Machine Gun Battleground

Almost unanimous is the country in branding the turning of machine guns on a group of children in a New York gang feud as due to an alliance between politics and lawless elements. The Metropolitan officials and police are vigorously charged with challenging the supremacy of Chicago as the unhampered field for killers.

"It is an alliance which corrupts enforcement and public offices; stultifies public sentiment; flaunts law, order and decency; makes a mockery out of our sacred institutions—and shoots innocent children in the back," according to the UNIONTOWN HERALD. Observing that New York gangsters have begun "mowing down little children, and the police have been ordered to 'shoot to kill' and 'aim above the waistline'," the CHATTANOOGA NEWS, condemning Tammany, declares: "The gangsters at whom the police will aim 'above the waistline' will not be the gangsters who have been paying off."

"If those in New York who temporize with crime," advises the SIOUX FALLS DAILY ARGUS-LEADER, "have a spark of conscience or manhood in their make-ups, they are shuddering over the fearful things their activities have wrought. They cannot drive from their minds the picture of the helpless children lying bleeding in the Harlem street. And, on a general scale, it should disturb every New Yorker who holds an official capacity connected with law enforcement."

Quoting a police statement that the department is up against the "stumbling block of characteristic silence—a situation which 'ought to wake the public up'," the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS comments: "Wake it up to what? The metropolitan section of the American public reputedly is outraged over the latest effect of gunman activity locally—but what is its, and its police force's, reaction to the cause? On the very night of the atrocity the police evidently found no stumbling-block in the way of charging the child-killing gunfire to the ramifications of the beer war. And the following day, one man who was dragged is as a suspect—mistakenly supposed to own the death-car—'was known to police circles as a beer-runner.' More than a column of newspaper type is needed to tell about the nature of the city police endeavors to 'bring in the killers'. The story contains not one word concerning federal, state or city official efforts to smash the prolific source and cause of just such atrocities—the beer-war itself. Yet on July 29th, and again on the 30th the names of rival chiefs in that bloody business figured in the news of the child-slaughter."

"The indiscriminate shooting that would seem to prevail among gangsters," in the opinion of the CHARLOTTE NEWS, "is a deadly threat to the safety of innocent people, yet it cannot be less than obvious that the real crime, the real menace to the American people lies in the plot that, except for an incensing accident, would have been listed as just another gang killing." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) Republican charges that "the police are handicapped by the protection which many of the gangsters enjoy, through a tortuous series of connections, official and political. Shooting 'known 'gangsters on sight is not going to get us very far in cleaning out the racketeers and their murderous hirelings."

"The outrageous character of the crime itself," in the judgment of the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE "is incentive enough to stir the police to their utmost capacity," and that paper proclaims that, "no matter how apathetic humanity may appear in other things, any tale of cruelty to children arouses it. * * * This instance of turning machine guns upon children at play in an attempt to put a man 'on the spot', resulting in death and wounds, was enough to rouse the populace to fury—and it has." The WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE says: "This particular outrage, like every other great crime, ought to result in conviction and punishment. But turning every policeman loose to act as judge, jury and executioner is not calculated to produce the desired result."

"Reforms are almost impossible while the grip of the gang remains as strong as it is today," asserts the LEXINGTON LEADER, but the SAVANNAH MORNING NEWS thinks the slaying "may do more to crystallize sentiment and moral support of efforts to stamp out lawlessness than anything that could have happened," and the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL maintains that "all that is needed is a bona fide order from the 'higher-ups' to the police to go to work on the 'dogs'."

"An aroused public opinion, with the slogan, 'no mercy for gangsters'," beleives the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, "is the need today. The heaviest penalty should be imposed for the slightest offense. Gangland should be taught the people have awakened from their lethargy, and that they are determined to have crime stamped out. If the people are insistent, there is no question about what police bodies, juries and judges will do. But so long as the people go on with their indifferent attitude, we shall continue to read of innocent children being shot down in cold blood by cowardly gangs of murderers in cars bristling with machine guns."

Condemnation of the methods employed by the police is voiced by the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS, with the statement: "All 'known beer runners' were called in for questioning. There was quite an assemblage of them. Known gangsters rounded up by the police for an investigation! The police have them card-indexed, along with the addresses. When a murder occurs they may be asked questions. The idea seems to be that beer runners shall not be molested except when killings occur. There is police efficiency for you! But maybe the shooting of playing children on a New York street will be charged to prohibition. Then, again, the patrons of bootleggers might give the incident a little consideration in terms of personal responsibility—particularly those who have children."

The PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL describes the incident: "It is lucky there were not more killed and injured. It was a crowded street. Approximately 75 flaming bullets were poured from the mouth of a machine gun. Anybody in the vicinity was a possible victim. There was no thought of who might or might not be killed. There was no thought of the safety of innocent bystanders, not even of children. Is New York to permit the same gang sovereignty to establish itself there as in Chicago?"

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

VALUE OF COLLEGE EDUCATIONS

The use of a College or a University education is at present subjected to severe criticism. Some say it does and some say it don't. Some point with pride to the successful college bred man and some with scorn to the profligates and failures who at one time were graduated from Fresh and Salt Water Institutions of Learning. The chief criticism seems to be that four years of a young man's life might be put to a more useful occupation than the preparation for and attendance upon class room recitations, to say nothing about the wicked waste of time spent upon athletic fields.

There is no rule of three by which the value of a college education may be measured. Primarily Culture, spelt with a capital letter, ought to be the object of all educations. Financial success should be a secondary consideration. There is time after the young man or woman have received his or her degree of B. A. B. S., Ph. D. or what you will for him or her, to enter upon the business of earning a living and the chances are, granting that the young man or woman are in earnest and have the proper amount of stick-to-ativeness, that he or she will give a good account of themselves in after life. Four years of rubbing elbows with other young men coming to college from all sorts of environments is an education in itself and makes for culture also.

It is to be regretted that too many colleges and universities have ceased to require students to study the Latin and Greek Languages. Those Languages are the foundations both in words and grammar of all modern Languages—fully sixty percent of all English words are either Latin or Greek in their derivation. The more Latin and Greek the man or woman has read, the better will be the English spoken and written by that man and that woman.

But 'you can not make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," neither should a fifty dollar saddle be put upon a twenty five dollar horse."

Flood In China Kills Thousands

Yangzte Valley Floods Have Taken Thousands Of Lives, Report Today Says

SCORES OF HOUSES SINK UNDER WATER

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Floods in the Yangzte Valley have taken a toll of thousands of lives in the past few days, according to dispatches from China recived in London today.

One report stated that 400 people who had sought refuge from the racing waters of the Yangzte in the grandstand of the racecourse at Hankow lost their lives when the structure collapsed.

According to a Shanghai dispatch, thousands were drowned in that city Friday when scores of houses, crowded with refugees, were undermined and sank under the water. A hundred prisoners in the city jail were reported to have been drowned like rats in a trap.

Rain Ends Drought Started In July

Steady Downpour This Morning Will Be Beneficial To Crops

Both the heat wave and the drouth, which has been experienced since the early part of July, was ended abruptly today, when a steady downpour of rain set in, following several nice showers Sunday afternoon.

The rain was badly needed, the ground having become very dry during the many hot days of July and the first of this month. Late corn and other crops were showing the effects of the dry weather, while the fruit crop would have been damaged had it continued dry much longer.

Almost two-fifths of an inch of rain had fallen up to 9 o'clock this morning, after which a good soaking rain set in.

'CHUTE LOWERS A PLANE

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 10.—Tests of a parachute designed to lower an airplane intact in case of trouble and invented by O. P. Carr, have been successfully made, it is claimed here. The chute will make possible a reduction of 65 per cent of air accidents, now considered unavoidable, according to officials. A lever in the pilot's cockpit releases the chute, which is fastened to the fuselage, in event of accident while in the air. Another lever releases the chute from the plane upon landing preventing the plane being dragged. The parachute is capable of withstanding a jerk of 27,000 pounds, is only three times larger than the regulation parachute and weighs but sixty-seven pounds, according to the inventor.

A FLASH OF LIGHTNING

(International News Service)

CLINTON, Conn.—A bolt of lightning emerging from a recent shower raced into the home of Charles Haag here via a conduit leading from Haag's garage, blew out twelve windows and crippled the wiring system of the house. free wheelingly speaking by don herold

I'D pay several cents a mile extra for that Free Wheeling sensation in my Studebaker—if I had to.

But the joke is, it doesn't cost me money—it saves me money.

A Studebaker is swell when running along with the motor engaged, but it is those moments of momentum—those miles of Free Wheeling—which give me my grandest thrills . . . and these don't cost—they PAY.

I sail along, manufacturing miles and money!

About one mile in seven or six or five is free—because you save from a seventh to a fifth of your gas and oil.

Seems to me ridick to buy a car without Free Wheeling—when you can get a real Free Wheeling Studebaker for $845.

This is the lowest priced Six with Free Wheeling as standard equipment engineered from tip to tail to give you the fullest benefits of Free Wheeling in its finest form.

Designs Airport Marking System

(International News Service)

READING, Pa., Aug. 10.—A new system of marking airports has been devised by Carl M. Sisk, local aviation enthusiast, and submitted to the department of commerce for consideration.

Sisks plan is to eliminate painting of names of cities and airports on the roofs of hangars and replacing them with four numbers. Under his system, Pennsylvania would be allotted the number "60" and each field in the state would be allotted another number for identification. Sisk also advocates designation of each airport by a letter, to indicate the type of port.

All of them, according to Wantz, thrive in this locality when properly cared for although few of his plant specimens are native and most of the animals and game birds have long passed out of the section.

Elsie F. Calvin Attends World's Educational Meet

International Relations Instructor At Senior High Tells Of Gathering

The importance of education in bringing about intelligent understanding among the nations of the world was forcefully demonstrated at the World Federation of Education Associations convention held in Denver, Colo., recently and attended by Elsie E. Calvin instructor of international relations at the Senior High School.

The sessions, held from July 27 to August 1, attracted 4,000 delegates and visitors from 50 different countries, with representatives of each country appearing on the program at one time or another, presenting the points of views on many educational problems, especially the importance of education in furthering understanding and co-operation among the nations.

Writing about the convention from the Shirley-Savoy hotel in Denver, the New Castle instructor states:

"One could not help being greatly impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of each speaker as he or she, with messages of good-will from the education associations of their respective countries, appealed to the common sense of intelligent peoples everywhere to realize the absolute futility of war in settling disputes, and appreciate the great possibilities of education, from the earliest grades through the universities, in the promotion of the understanding of our great common problems and the possibility of the solution of these by peaceful and intelligent means."

Prohibition Party To Have 1932 Ticket

(International News Service)

URBANA, Ill., Aug. 10.—The Prohibition party will nominate a national ticket in 1932, Harley Walter Kidder of Urbana, prohibition national committeeman, states.

Commenting on a plea made to all friends of prohibition to forsake their party affiliations and support President Hoover for re-election in 1932, Kidder said:

"I register my emphatic protest against any such attempt to corral the Prohibition party. President Hoover does not, and cannot, represent the political philosophy of the Prohibition party, and I resent the implication that he should be our standard bearer."

Oil Recovery Methods Studied

Penn State Scientists Probe Best Methods To Secure Maximum Production

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 10.—From one-half to three-fourths of the store of oil in this state remains in the ground after the usual pumping and flooding operations, Dean Edward Steidle, head of the school of mineral industries of the Pennsylvania State college, said today. Much of this oil is recoverable by improved methods, he added, and producers are now using every means at their disposal to lower coses in view of the present price of petroleum.

A number of investigations are now being made at Penn State to obtain the fundamental information on which the future petroleum industry of the state will depend, the Penn State dean said. During the past year Dr. A. P. Honess, professor of mineralogy, has found out that one of the limiting factors in the present methods of extracting the oil is the plugging influence of certain minerals in the oil sands. Other members of the research staff are attacking the problem of overcoming this difficulty, while Professor C. A. Bonine, head of the department of geology, is making studies of possible combinations of flooding and indirect mining.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemmorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Eckerd's and New Castle Drug Co. says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

Post And Gatty Forced To Land At Bellefonte

Round World Record Breakers Forced Down By Mountain Storm In Pennsylvania

WERE ON WAY TO HUMMELSTOWN, PA.

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 10.—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round the world fliers who were balked by a Pennsylvania mountain storm after successfully riding out all kinds of weather on their epic globe-girdling flight, today prepared to hop off for New York City from Bellefonte airport, where they were forced down by a land squall which interrupted an attempted non-stop dash from Sioux City, Ia., to Hummelstown, Pa.

The globe-girdlers landed at the airport here late yesterday after attempting to ride out bad weather encountered at Toledo, O., and which moved eastward with them. They brought their plane, the Winnie Mae, down at the government field here without mishap, rolled it into a hangar and spent the night at a local hotel.

Flying weather over the Allegheny mountains was none too good early today but the famed pair said they expected to take off for New York about 11:30 a. m. (E. D. T.) regardless of weather conditions.

Missionary Given Hearty Welcome

Miss Sally Botham Has Completed Twenty Years Of Missionary Work In Africa

As Miss Sally Botham stepped from the train Sunday at the Pennsylvania station in New Castle, she was greeted by forty four members of the Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance and when she appeared they sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name."

Miss Botham was met in Pittsburgh by her father, William Botham, and Miss Cecelia Lewis, a returned missionary from Africa.

Miss Botham has completed her fourth full term as a mission worker in French West Africa, making 20 years of her life she has given in the service of the Master. Miss Botham spent 22 days on the water on her trip home and her arrival in New Castle was delayed on account of accompanying Mr. and Mrs. G. Stoddard to their home, as they were both ill, Mrs. Stoddard suffering from a nervous breakdown. The Stoddards are also missionary workers.

Miss Botham is quite fatigued from the long journey and is confined to bed at the home of Miss Cecelia Lewis, Marshall avenue.

Desire To Explore Page In History Of Apaches Spelled Death To Co-Ed

Murder Of Henrietta Schmerler, Daughter Of Cultured Scholar, Ended Career That Held Much Scientific Promise

HENRIETTA SCHMERLER

The man is looking at the spot where the body of Miss Schmerler was found.

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Central Press Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—When death, violent and mysterious, came to 22-year-old Henrietta Schmerler of New York, in a gully four miles from the Apache Indian reservation in White River, Ariz., it terminated a career stamped for all its brevity with the bright promise of distinguished scientific achievement.

She was too eager to explore "a forbidden page" of history, students of the Apaches say, with a shake of the head.

Miss Schmerler was the daughter of a cultured and wealthy German and American family. She was reared by a father who loved books and was himself a scholar of rich attainment. Elias Schmerler, a widower, after making a large fortune as a manufacturer and real estate operator, had retired to devote himself to his favorite avocation, translating weighty literary works, such as those of Herbert Spencer, into Hebrew for the University of Palestine library.

The victim of the recent murder, so reminiscent of the blood-chilling stories related of the warlike and vengeful Apache Indians of 70 or 80 years ago, was a typical American co-ed. Though a leader in all studies, she found time for sports and social activities. She played on hockey and basketball school teams, was an excellent dancer and a frequent visitor to musical recitals and the theater.

Anthropology Fascinated Her

Two years ago, at the age of 20, she was graduated from New York university with a bachelor of science degree.

Following that she attended Columbia university in quest of a doctor of philosophy degree. Of independent spirit, she helped pay her way by doing translations. But what interested this ambitious, intellectual girl more than languages, or any other study, was anthropology—that fascinating research into the history of the origins of man.

Less than two months ago Miss Schmerler's splendid work brought her a fellowship of a year's sojourn among the Indians on the western reservations. After a few weeks among the Apaches of Arizona, the girl wrote home excitedly to her family—she had five brothers and sisters—that she had made discoveries of the utmost significance. These concerned secret rituals that are part of the Apache tribal life.

Miss Schmerler added that she was the only white person who ever had learned of the carefully-guarded secrets and, without detailing what these were, said that the members of the tribe would be furious of they ever found out how much she knew.

"The Lady Who Stays Up"

"The natives call me "The White Lady Who Stays Up All Night Writing," wrote Henrietta. "I have not gotten to know the squaws at all but have gotten to know some of the men."

The next word the family and her Columbia instructors received was of the finding of her bruised and battered body in the ravine. Arrests were made, scores of Apaches were questioned by Arizona authorities, but the investigators, blocked by the stony silence of the Indians, have not been able to solve the riddle of Henrietta Schmerler's death.

The squaws were jealous, it is said. The tribe, enraged at the intrusion of an alien stranger into the customs of the clan, took vengeance upon her.

No white person knows the exact truth. No one, in all likelihood, ever will. Undoubtedly, however, the young anthropology student died a terrible death because of her eagerness to explore a page in the fascinating unwritten book of the enigmatic, stalwart American Indian.

Girl Scouts Are Now In Camp At Camp John Phillips

Everything Is Going Like Clock Work Under Supervision Of Miss Nance Pugh

Girl Scout camp at Camp John M. Phillips on the banks of the Slippery Rock east of the city, got under way Saturday and by evening everything was working in strict accordance with the regulations adopted for the camp and under the personal supervision of Miss Nance Pugh, Girl Scout director, and her assisting corps of counselors.

As the girls arrived at camp Saturday, approximately a hundred in all, they were registered by Mrs. F. E. Sowersby and Miss Pugh. Then their health record and weight were taken by Mrs. H. K. Bell, the camp nurse.

The afternoon was devoted to checking the girls for their swimming classes by the Misses Alice Elbeck and Peg Demarest, swimming counselors, with Miss Mary Elizabeth Myers as assistant.

Saturday evening all the campers met for a general campfire at which time all the counselors were introduced. Later the girls went to their unit campfires, where they were able to get better acquainted with the girls and counselors of their respective units.

Sunday there was no regular program, but a song service was held in the cathedral by the water's edge, with Miss Mary Elizabeth Myers in charge. In spite of the rain Sunday there were many persons, both parents and friends, visited the camp.

The day was closed with "Scout's Own", a non-sectarian service held in the cathedral with Miss Leona Sankey in charge. The camp routine is going fine and everything points to the most successful camp in the history of the Girl Scout movement in this district.

Practice TRUE Economy

invest in a UNIVERSAL WASHER

Here is indeed an opportunity to practice true economy at a time when it is really needed. Why maintain a wornout washer? There is no economy in that. An old washer only half washes your clothes. Wornout wringer rolls will leave soapy water in your clothing discoloring it, shortening its life and spoiling its appearance.

In the UNIVERSAL you have perfect cleansing action by means of a non-tangling, dome-shaped agitator and full balloon wringer rolls that are harmless to snaps and buttons.

Now we offer you the NEW UNIVERSAL a higher quality washer at the right price. Only $4.75 down installs this washer in your laundry, the balance arranged to suit your income.

Made the plaything, for a few breathless moments, of the mysterious forces of nature that operate in the upper regions, Ralph C. Driving his plane into a cloud formation known as a thunderhead, Wensinger said that tremendous air forces gripped his craft, took it out of his control, tossed it upward at 1,400 feet a minute and sideways at 70 miles an hour, finally releasing it to let the plane and occupant escape undamaged.

Unusual Suicide In New York City Probed By Police

Man Telephones Obituary To Newspaper Then Kills Himself By Leap From Hotel

NOTE IS LEFT IN EXPLANATION

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Police today investigated the strangest suicide on record.

Late last night an add taker for a morning newspaper received a telephone call.

"Please insert the following obituary notice," said a man's voice, dictating:

"'Keyes, Lawrence H., Columbia Heights, Brooklyn. Died suddenly. Funeral at convenience of people. Please omit flowers."

Leaps From Window

Before reporters and police could reach the man's room in a Brooklyn hotel, Keyes had dressed himself in an army aviator's uniform, tied an empty siphon bottle to each wrist, shot himself twice in the chest and leaped 18 stories to death.

Keyes was 32 years old and had served with the British during the World War.

He left a note in his room stating settlement of his estate would provide ample funds to pay his hotel bill. The note apologized to the hotel for causing "the general inconvenience" and asked that his relatives be notified of his death at 10 o'clock this morning.

Jailed For False Pretense

Fake Masonic Fee Collector In West Virginia Prison

Dispatches from Morgantown, W. Va., today confirmed reports that George Phillips, formerly of Harrisburg and at one time so-called grand master of the grand lodge of the illegitimate organization, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, is now in the state penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., serving a sentence of a year imposed on him June 26. He pleaded guilty in the Taylor county circuit court to charges of obtaining fees for Masonic degrees under false pretense. His two alleged accomplices who were arrested with him months ago have pleaded not guilty and are to be called for trial in the same court in October, the dispatches said.

Phillips is the man, it will be recalled, who was the active head of the clandestine organization known under the title Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and kindred spuricus bodies set up by himself and others in this state. He fought in vain to compel the secretary of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania to register and recognize the name emblems and symbols of his organizations.

He lost his action upon the ground, the courts held, that only the older and truly legitimate Masonic grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, the Grand Holy Royal Arch chapter of R. A. Masons, the Grand Council of Royal and Selected Master Masons, Grand Comdery Knights Templar of Pennsylvania, the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite bodies, the A. A. O. N. M. shrine and subordinate bodies under the jurisdiction of these governing bodies were entitled to be registered under the act of 1929.

After losing that fight, Phillips and others of his ilk started an action in the federal courts in Philadelphia to restrain the older and the legitimate Masonic organizations from trying to enforce the provision of the act of 1929 which indirectly stripped the bogus A. F. & A. M. organization of its pins, emblems, jewels, titles and insignia.

The case never came to trial and died a legal death for want of being pressed. Then the true and older Free and Accepted Masons and the legitimate organizations allied with it brought an action in equity in the courts to compel the bogus organization of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons to cease using the lodge pins, emblems, symbols, titles and insignia.

Attorneys who brought that suit say they will endeavor to have it come to trial in September.

Dane Officials Fear For Safety Of Parker Cramer

Former Clarion Flier Overdue At Copenhagen On Flight From Shetland Island

HEAVY STORMS RAGE OFF COAST

(International News Service)

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 10.—Grave anxiety was felt by Danish officials today over the safety of Parker D. Cramer, American airmen, missing since he took off from the Shetland Islands yesterday for Norway.

After successfully flying across the sub-Arctic oceans from Detroit in an attempt to map an air mail route from America to Europe, Cramer encountered heavy storms on the final stages of his journey, and fears were felt that he had been forced down in raging seas somewhere between the Shetlands and Denmark, a distance of 550 miles.

Cramer had planned to stop at Bergen, Norway, en route to Copenhagen, but nothing had been heard of him there. It was pointed out, however, that he might have been forced off his course by adverse winds and made a descent in one of the numerous isolated fjords of Norway. In such case, it was said, considerable time might elapse before word of his flight reached civilization.

Throughout the day, all Danish and Norwegian wireless stations made frantic attempts to establish communication with Cramer's oil-burning plane but without success. Authorities were attempting to check the origin of two mysterious radio-telephone calls picked up last night and early this morning. Wireless operators said they heard an American voice saying "Hello! Hello!" and were able to distinguish the word "Norway," but unable to determine from where the signal came.

Cramer left the Faroe Islands Saturday after a punctual flight from Greenland and Iceland. He had not planned to stop at the Shetlands, but storms forced a descent before the eyes of astonished fishermen of the little town of Lerwick.

Lindberghs Wait For Good Weather

Colonel Lindbergh And Wife Wait At Point Barrow, Alaska, For Fair Weather

RAIN AND WIND CAUSES DELAY

(International News Service)

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 10.—Poised at the "top of the world", Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today again awaited a change in the weather to take off on the next leg of their vacation flight to the Orient.

Heavy rain and wind threatened further delay in their hop to Nome, 532 miles to the southwest.

Thoroughly rested and having taken in all the sights of this outpost, they declared themselves ready to proceed as soon as the weather permits.

Attend Mission.

Since the Lindberghs' arrival here Saturday from Aklavik, Northwest territory, they have regaled the small white population and the Eskimos of Point Barrow with news from the outside world.

Yesterday they attended the mission conducted by Dr. Henry Greist, medical missionary, who is their host.

Mrs. Lindbergh experienced a twinge of homesickness, she said, from playing with Barraw Morgan, eight-months-old daughter of the U. S. Signal Corps operator and his wife. She declared the Morgan infant reminded her of her own baby.

The Colonel gave the natives an exhibition of his strength when he shouldered a fourteen-foot timber and put it in place to prevent any ice floes from damaging his amphibian plane.

Lathrop Street Boy Escapes Serious Injury

Police Hear Of A Number Of Accidents On The Streets Of The City

Richard E. Gwilym, of 315 West Madison avenue, reported Saturday to the police that he was enroute west on Lathrop street, in front of 811 Lathrop street, when a small boy, William Tyrrell, aged 6 of that address, ran from the south to the north side of Lathrop street from the rear of a machine that was enroute east. He ran directly in front of the Gwilym car and was knocked to the ground.

He was picked up and removed to his home and a physician called. He was found to be skinned on the face, arm and right leg, but apparently not seriously injured.

Mike DiNuccio of D. R. No. 2, Harbor road, reported to the police over the week end that he had his car parked at East Washington and Jefferson streets, and was backing out ready to go east on East Washington, when Lawrence Pasquella of 1816½ South Jefferson street, attempted to pass to his left and ran into and damaged his machine.

Charles Stitt of Hartman street, R. D. No. 1 reported that he was enroute north on South Mill street, as a truck bearing Pennsylvania license S608B making a left hand turn onto Division, collided with his machine, causng damage to both cars.

Jacob I. LeVine of 1311 Moravia street, reported that he was enroute north on South street at Washington street, as a street car was enroute to the car barn. Mr. Levine stopped in the rear of the street car. As the street car pulled out into Washington street, he pulled out beside it. As he did so, Robert McNees enroute east on Washington street, pulled to the left of Washington street to get ahead of the street car and ran into the front of the Levine car, causing considerable damage.

William Kachmar of Rogby P. O. reported that as he was stopped at Terrace avenue and South Jefferson street, that Dr. W. L. Campbell came down Terrace avenue and into a car bearing Pennsylvania license 3359F, causing it to hit the Kachmar machine, doing damage to all three cars. Mr. Campbell in his report states that the car he hit came through the stop sign without making the proper stop.

Garden Club Asks Donation Of Canning Jars

Seek Jars To Be Distributed Among Unemployed Of City To Can Gardentruck

HOPE MANY WILL RESPOND TO CALL

Members of the Garden club are hopeful of another fine response to their call for glass jars in which to can garden produce, when the second donation day is held Tuesday.

These jars may be left at the rooms underneath the Red Cross office, 8½ East street, where someone will be at the curb to receive them as the cars drive up.

This is the second demand for canning jars made this year by the Garden club and will be the last appeal made. Around 1,700 cans were received in the previous call, which were distributed to those engaged in operating gardens under the auspices of the Garden club, Associated Charities, Red Cross and the city and county welfare departments.

The demand by the unemployed far exceeded the supply, and not more than two dozen cans given to any family, those with the larger families receiving the most.

There is a particular need for large jars, particularly quart and half gallon jars, as there is a bountiful supply of corn, beans, etc. to be canned. By enabling the people to put up their own vegetables for winter use, the citizens of New Castle will be helping them to help themselves.

After the cans have been received, they will be distributed at a canning demonstration to be held under the auspices of the Garden club, when Miss Eleanor Drury, State College home economics expert, will show how to can corn, tomatoes, beets, and other products; how to dry corn and beans, and how to make tomato paste, whereby tomatoes are dried out, and the valuable ingredients left in the formed of a concentrated paste. Only those who attend this demonstration, or have a representative of the family present, will receive cans.

President Hoover Is 57 Years Old

Hoover Returns To Washington Today From Summer Camp—Observing Birthday

WHITE HOUSE COOK BAKES BIG CAKE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—President Hoover returned to the White House today one year older. Today is the 57th anniversary of his birth and he indicated that he will observe the occasion by staying at his desk as usual.

If Mrs. Hoover has some sort of a surprise party to stage for her husband she has not let it be known. Last year she held such a party at their Rapidan, Va., camp and baskets of trinkets were given to Mr. Hoover and his guests.

It is probable that Mrs. Hoover will invite her street neighbors to the White House tonight for dinner and an informal birthday gathering.

Anyway one fact was learned, the White House cook has baked a good-sized birthday cake.

The President spent the week-end at his mountain camp.

Engineer Tells Pymatuning Dam Work To Rotary

Imagine a great water project that has a drainage area of 160 square miles.

Seventeen thousand acres under water.

A lake that has a surface of 26 square miles.

These were some of the pertinent facts brought forth at the meeting of New Castle Rotary club today by Ralph J. Ferris, engineer of the Pennsylvania water and resources board, who is the engineer in direct charge of the Pymatuning dam project.

Introduced by Dr. C. C. Green, chairman of the club's program committee, Ferris spoke on the origin of the Pymatuning swamp and the surveys which have been made relative to the effective and economic use of the waterway.

The speaker entered upon the phase on its use as a storage area. He pointed out that the normal minimum flow of water in the Shenango was 10 cubic feet per second. When the project is finally completed the normal minimum flow will be 400 cubic feet per second.

Ferris said that the project, when completed, will have a considerable effect on the economic development of the valley.

Louis B. Round, president of the local Rotary club, presided.

Navy Department Not To Outline Trip For Akron Commander

David S. Ingles, acting secretary of the navy, has notified Congressman J. H. Swick that the navy department will not instruct the commander of The Akron as to what course he is to follow on the zeppelin's initial flight.

This information was sent to council by the congressman in view of the city's desire to have The Akron fly over New Castle.

The initial flight will be for the purpose of collecting data as to the performance of the Zeppelin and the commander will be at liberty to follow any course he desires.

The distress signal of S. O. S. is merely designated as such a signal and the letters do not stand for any words.

Woodward Gets First Place In Ballot Drawing

Graham C. Woodward, Philadelphia, Gets Favored Position On Primary Ballot

JUDGE DREW IS SECOND DRAWN

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10—Graham C. Woodward, Philadelphia attorney, today won first place on the primary ballot as a candidate for the State Supreme Court in the drawings held in the State Bureau of Elections.

Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, who also seeks the Republican nomination, will be second on the ballot. Gov. Pinchot has named Judge Drew to the vacancy on the supreme bench but the Allegheny jurist apparently intends to retain his superior court berth until assured of the Republican nomination.

Political forecasters place the value of first on the ballot in a statewide election at anywhere from 50,000 to 100,000 votes.

Charles F. Uhl, of Somerset county, the Democratic candidate, won first place on that ballot for the supreme court. Judge Drew, who also filed Democratic petitions, will be second.

The election bureau today conducted drawings for all counties in which there are contests for judicial nominations.

First place for the Republican nomination for Congress in the second Philadelphia district was won by George W. Coles. Edward L. Strokes was drawn second and William J. Yorke, third. Nomination for the place will be held to fill the vacancy caused by death of Congressman George S. Graham.

Civil War Song Author Is Now Past Ninety

Wrote "March To The Sea" While Held In Southern Prison Camp

BORN AT PULASKI RECORDS ASSERT

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—Nearly a century of life, filled with adventure and romance was reviewed by Major S. H. M. Byers, soldier, poet, diplomat and author, when he celebrated his 93rd birthday at his home here recently.

The last surviving staff officer of General Sherman's famous "March to the Sea", Major Byers wrote the old Union war song by that name while he sat in a southern prison. The song's stirring words and inspiring music, were sung by the western army on its march from Atlanta to Savannah.

Byers is especially well known for his poetry of California. Several of his poems include: "Bells of Capistrano," "Florietta," "At San Diego" and "Yosemite".

Born July 23, 1838,at Pulaski, Pa., the son of J. M. Byers and Parmela Marshall Byers, Major Byers entered the Civil war as a private and emerged as a member of Sherman's staff.

He was chosen by the general for his bravery and daring to pass thru the enemy's lines and carry to President Lincoln the first news of the fall of Carolina's capital. He later was incarcerated in the prison where he wrote "Sherman's March to the Sea".

A few years after the war he was appointed consul to Zurich, Switzerland, and remained in the diplomatic service for 20 years, becoming consul general at Rome, Italy.

He wrote the state song of Iowa, and is also the author of a poem entitled "Marriage of the Flowers". Many of his poems have been set to music by Charles Wakefield Cadman, the composer.

WHY THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST COAST COUNTRY HAS BUT LITTLE RAIN

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Summer weather in the Pacific northwest is under quite different influences from that east of the Mississippi river. While winter brings rain and cloudy weather, as soon as the land in spring becomes warmer than the waters of the near by ocean, the cooler air coming in from the ocean laden with water vapor becomes warmer and with the warming the capacity for carrying more moisture is also increased. In consequence the weather in the Pacific northwest coast country is usually clear and dry from the middle of June until around October. In summer an area of low barometric pressure may pass over western Washington and Oregon without bringing rain.

Another Night Cactus Blooms

"Star Of Bethlehem" Blooms At Night In Hamilton Street Residence

An 18-year-old night cactus plant, or "Star of Bethlehem" has impressed visitors at the home of Mrs. Catherine Matthews, 1511 Hamilton street. It is the second night blooming cactus to be reported in the city this year. Several hundred people of the east side in the vicinity of East Washington and Butler avenue were treated to an unusual spectactle when a similar plant bloomed at night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Grove, 740 East Washington street.

The plant blooms only at night and wilts before dawn. The plant has been the possession of Mrs. Matthews for 18 years since it was presented to her by a sister, Mrs. L. L. Rodgers of Pulaski.

The bloom is noticeable on the edge of a broad leaf. This year Mrs. Matthews' plant has bloomed three times. One bloom was observed with great interest on Thursday night. Last evening three blossoms came out in all their exotic beauty. Mrs. Matthews said this year marks the seventh successive year that the plant has bloomed. It is six feet tall, showing a remarkable growth since it was first obtained by its owner.

The plant, a member of the cactus family is called the "Star of Bethlehem" due to the fact that inside the cup there is a yellow growth that resembles a manger, while near the tip is an almost perfectly formed star.

Young People Hear Rev. J. Calvin Reid

Worker From New Wilmington Conference Speaks In First United Presbyterian Church

Lois Williamson and Alex Hanna were the leaders Sunday evening at the union meeting of the Y. P. C. U. held in the First United Presbyterian church and a most interesting session followed with Rev. J. Calvin Reid, of Louisville, Ky., as the guest speaker.

Rev. Reid is a young man of more than ordinary oratorical ability, who has recently been called to the First United Presbyterian church of Butler. This week he is teaching the Boys' Bible class at the New Wilmington conference.

Rev. Reid took as his subject "Our New Freedom" and his theme dealt with 'Narrow is the path that leads to Life". He stated that the new freedom the young people are enjoying is just a casting off of old fetters to take on new bonds and responsibilities, and even if one thinks they are free, they are not and the new freedom must keep to the narrow path that leads to a righteous Christian life.

Miss Mary McGeehan pleased with a piano number.

Thte union meeting Sunday, August 16, will be held in the Highland United Presbyterian.

Boot And Shoe Industry Gains Over Last Year

Pennsylvania Plants Showed Increased Production Over 1930

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 10—Production in Pennsylvania's boot and shoe industry during the first half of 1931 showed a gain of 10.7 over that of the corresponding period last year, according to the Commerce Department. The increased activity in such industries of the Nation was only 1.1 per cent during that time.

The 92 boot and shoe factories of Pennsylvania reported a production of 7,680,509 pairs during the first half of this year as compared with 6,937,781 made during that period last year. This was a gain of 10.7 per cent. The total production of boot and shoe industries of the nation was 160,187,013 pairs during the first six months of this year, and 158,457,256 during that time in 1930. This was an increase of only 1.1 per cent, or about one-tenth of the Pennsylvania gain.

Such production in the Keystone State showed only a slight seasonal decline in June under May, there being 1,126,907 pairs produced during the former month and 1,284,041 during the latter.

Especially gratifying to the Department is the way in which the boot and shoe industries of the Nation held up during June. This is usually reported as a slack month, but this year production during that month was almost up to that of 1929, when a production record was set. Some of the factories are reported as advertising for workers, while several other companies are reported as having all the business they can handle.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Share the Family Car With Wife

Dr. Myers Suggests Man Often Selfish In Use Of Auto

By GARRY C. MYERS Ph. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College Western Reserve University

In the average family only one car is owned. As a rule, the father drives it to work, and if the mother or other members needs to go away during the day, they must find other means, no matter how inconvenient.

Often this only family car is driven every day by dad, even though there are easily accessable means for his going to and from work at considerably less cost. How many arguments such a father can find for driving rather than going by a trolley car or bus! There are not a few instances when the extra cost of running the car by driving it unnecessarily to work wreaks hardship on the rest of the family.

Nationally, the father, who learns to think of the family car for his personal convenience discovers very strong reasons why the mother should not try to learn to drive it. He expresses great anxiety lest she and the car might be injured, especially the car. In many instances he really believes what he expresses for one's conscious or unconscious wishes make us reason so as to fulfil them. We feel first and reason afterward. We make decisions to fit out human bias and then fortify our decisions with very "valid" arguments.

No more wonderful and effectual invention of the human heart than the oft-expressed fears by a husband that his wife will be too nervous ever to drive a car safely! Curiously enough, a lot of women are convinced. Any woman who is sufficiently submissive can be convinced of almost anything by a husband who is relatively lordly over her.

There is an occasional woman just as there is an occasional man, who constitutionally is unfitted to drive an automobile: but there is no good scientific evidence that difference in driving skill and reliability is at all a sex difference. It's merely an individual matter.

The husband who is not too self-glorified and domineering wants his wife to learn to drive the car for the satisfaction it will give her and the convenience it will afford the family.

On days when she will need to go away, particularly if at some inconvenience otherwise, he will go to work without the car so she can have it, merely playing the game, being considerate and thoughtful, showing the stuff he is made of. You and I know a lot of husbands who do so: and we know some who don't. Be it hoped that the latter will be intelligent enough, broad-minded enough and manly enough to admit the reason for their procedure and not attempt to delude themselves, their family and friends that the car is not available for the wife because of her incapacity to drive it.

Many a mother living in out-of-the-way places must bear great hardship to go shopping or meet a social engagement during the day: a good many prefer to remain at home. Furthermore, they may be humiliated by their friends whose husbands have been more considerate. Then this dad-driver only may not care to go out often with his wife and children on evenings and holidays.

To some mothers this article will do harm, making them more discontented with their lot. Some have husbands they can never change: others if clever enough, will convince their husbands of their errors. If you want dad to read this, tell him not to: then he will. You know these husbands are "stubborn brutes"

To Start Work On New Highways In State Road Program

State Assumes Responsibility For 20,000 Miles Of Highway Saturday

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Preparations are being made by the State highway department to begin work immediately in each county but Philadelphia on at least one section of road which the department takes over under the 20,000 mile road programme. The department assumes responsibility for these highways next Saturday.

Secretary Lewis and his engineers have been planning for the start of the rural road improvement work for some weeks. Virtually all preliminary steps have been taken and when the State takes over these roads work will be started at once.

It is the expectation of the highway department to improve approximately 1700 miles of this township system before winter. Of the 20,000 miles to be taken over 6000 miles has been classed as improved by the department.

Most of the mileage to be improved this fall will be given an oil treatment after completion. The department has placed a maximum of $6000 a mile on the rural roads. At that limit the amount to be expended will approximate $10,200,000.

During the last few weeks the department of property and supplies has purchased for the highway department road building equipment costing $1,500,000. At prevailing prices more machinery was purchased then anticipated.

The additional equipment was needed to maintain and improve the rural roads. After the new roads are taken over by the department the State will have a highway system of more than 33,500 miles.

On July 23 Governor Pinchot and Secretary Lewis participated in the formal opening of the rural road programme. That road was between Lewisberry and Rossville, in York county. Improvement of this road has been finished and the machinery ordered moved to another section of York county where the department plans further work on the rural system.

Detective Got Stolen Bonds; And Also Wife

Not "Get Your Man," But "Get Your Girl" Motto Adopted By Philadelphia Detective

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—"Get your man" is a detective motto which spells only mediocrity if carried out to Horace Fesmire, member of the detective staff of Philadelphia's police department. Detective Fesmire was ordered to apprehend a thief who had robbed Miss Ruth B. Lampkin of $500 in Canadian bonds. He got his man, also the bonds, and also the woman who was robbed.

For, a few days after Detective Fesmire returned the stolen bonds to Miss Lampkin, Miss Lampkin changed her name to Mrs. Horace Fesmire.

Examinations are now in progress, the commencement exercises to be held Wednesday, the school proper not to end until the following day. Dr. Ellis, the recently elected president of Juniata College and noted for his ability as a speaker, will deliver the commencement address in the main auditorium Wednesday morning of this week at 10 o'clock.

The summer school students, en-masse, made an inspection tour of the Armstrong Cork Company's plant Monday afternoon, August 11 and will make one of the new Macartney's library on Tuesday. Numerous interesting special programs have of late been put on by the students at the close of chapel.

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"I can't understand," writes Mrs. Eula Hosch, from Rockford, Ill., "why you don't write a column about New York stores. They are a great deal more interesting, speaking for women readers, than all that stuff about night clubs and actors and restaurants. The stores in New York should be filled with material if you simply look for it—and it is something no other columnist has done from your angle."

All right, Mrs. Hosch, I'll try.

There are no skillets in any Fifth Ave. department store, and Macy's avoids goldfish for unknown reasons. Wait till I get warm.

Frank Simon began his career at Stearn's as a cashboy and was dubbed "Simple Simon" for daring to open an exclusive store in residential Fifth avenue so far uptown (38th street). He was the first to send "style scouts" to lunch at Delmonico's Sherry's for tea, and to the opera first nights.

Lord and Taylor has the highest-salaried department store salesperson in the world—in the linen department.

The really exclusive shops seldom include pictures in their ads. Bergdorf-Goodman once printed a photo of a ravishing black velvet coat rushed from the Paris salons, the feature of which was a spray of artificial gardenias—only to see reproductions appear all over 14th St. two days later, selling at $15.

Bendel's is the only shop dispensing tea and coffee to shoppers gratis, but most of them (the ritzy ones, that is) have their own brands of cigarettes and brass-buttoned lackeys to make telephone calls for madame so she won't get exhausted.

Anne Morrow's trousseau came from McVeady's, run by a pair of studiedly sedate Scotch sisters, who were nearly pestered to death by reporters after details.

Polly Lauder Tunney buys her hats at Hollander's.

The jewelry stores are laying in a stock of cameos and other jewelry for neck and throat.

The ice-boxes of the better fur stores contain coats which may be halved to make short packets by zipping zippers around their middles.

Peck and Peck has silk hose at $500 a pair.

Saks Fifth Avenue was the first New York store to display window mannequins in the modern manner, with gold and silver faces and thyroid throats.

Woolworth's in snooty Fifth Ave., does the biggest business of any store in their chain, with ladies entering it from Rolls Royces throughout the day.

The sweeping wing of the elaborate stone staircase in Thurn's figures in many bridal poses for society debs whose own homes offer no such impressiveness.

Dobb's, now liquidating, used to furnish all hats for Charlie Chaplin and Mayor Walker.

Tiffany's and Altman's, known the world over, have no mark on their buildings to indicate who they are.

One of the richest heiresses ordered ducks embroidered on her wedding nightgown because she met her husband at a duck-shoot.

Countess Bernadotte, the former Estelle Manville, orders Jay-Thorpe's "fishtail" pajamas from Sweden.

Now that the "first night" season is again with us, fresh recruits are observed in that army of amiable but penniless Broadway characters who amaze their acquaintances by appearing at all the $25-a-stub theatrical openings, when it is clear that a ham sandwich would strain their resources.

They are immaculate in evening dress and they are the most opinionated and vivacious of anyone in the lobby, discussing the show between acts. Few realize that they never follow the crowd inside.

The publicity man for Luna Park, Coney Island, has a high-power idea lurking in his statement that "John the Baptist", the diving horse, is so vain he won't leap when nobody's watching. How did he find out? Listen for the splash?

JOBLESS AND DANDELIONS
(International News Service)

DENVER.—For years the wide expanses of lawn in Denver parks have been marred by dandelions. Manager Walter B. Lowry, of the department of improvements and parks, saw in the situation an opportunity to relieve unemployment. Lowry announced through local newspapers that every man, woman and child who wanted work would be given a job digging dandelions in City Park at 5 cents per pound. But instead of hundreds reporting for jobs there were thousands and workers continued to pour into Denver from surrounding communities and the city found itself swamped. Finally, it was deemed necessary to give preference to married men who have families to support.

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa., Aug. 10—Tarentum today played host to more than 300 fire companies as the 38th annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania firemen's Association opened to continue throughout the week.

Under a newly erected 'tented-city" scores of fire trucks with a varied assortment of fire-fighting paraphernalia were grouped ready to participate in the series of events slated on the convention's program. Water battles and Athletic events will take place throughout the week.

Featuring the convention will be the annual parade Thursday when 10,000 volunteer firemen from all sections of the Western Pennsylvania sector, with several hundred pieces of fire fighting equipment, are expected to participate. Woman Doctor Is Severely Injured

Dr. Alma Derick, 50, Of Bellwood, Pa., Injured As Autos Crash

HUSBAND AND SON SLIGHTLY INJURED

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 10.—Dr. Alma Reed Derick, 50, of Bellwood, near here, today was confined to the Altoona hospital in a critical condition from injuries suffered in an automobile crash near Osceola Mills late Saturday night.

Her husband, C. T. Derick, foreman of engines for the Bellwood division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and a son who accompanied her enroute to Osceola Mills were less seriously injured.

While pinned in the wreckage of her automobile, the woman physician directed rescuers and others who sought to extricate her from the overturned automobile. She said at the time that her back was broken but attaches at the hospital have been unable to take X-ray pictures for verification, because of her critical condition.

The accident occurred, according to police, when the Derick automobile sideswiped another car on the mountain road.

Lancaster Farmer Unable To Find Hitching Post, Uses Auto For Purpose

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 10.—A modern automobile was put to a use its builder probably never thought of, and old Dobbin got a horse-laugh at the motive power which supplanted him.

A Lancaster county farmer drove into town with a load of produce. Around and around the public square he drove and found that the city no longer provides hitching posts for horses.

Alighting, he tethered the team to the rear bumper of an automobile and went off to peddle his produce.

The owner of the car came out of a nearby shop, stared, laughed, then waited until the farmer returned and the wagon was unloaded before driving off.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

There are still a number of places in Lawrence County we have never seen, but after Sunday afternoon the list is reduced by one. Up until that time Hell's Hollow was just a name, but yesterday's roaming proved it was a place, and what a place.

After exploring the two miles of gorge that runs from the old Lawrence Furnace site, down to the Slippery Rock Creek, one feels like a blood brother of Daniel Boone. Wouldn't have been a bit surprised if a couple of Indians had dashed out from back of a rock most any time, and if you want to take a real hike, one that calls for dexterity and agility, but is rewarded with a never ending eye full of rugged beauty, by all means try it some afternoon.

Entering above the old Lawrence Furnace site, you are soon into the gorge, although for a short ways the path is even and the going not so tough. A quarter of a mile down you are in what looks like a vest pocket edition of the Grand Canyon.

Early in the trip you find rock formations that would in trigue any geologist. At one spot the stream has washed out a path through limestone, cutting back under it for many feet and forming a stone gully that is wider at the bottom than at the top. All that is needed to make a carven is to put a top on it for the same thing has happened as happened down in the Shenandoah Valley, water has cut through limestone and formed grotesque formations.

The deeper you get into the gorge the more beautiful it becomes. At one bend in the creek you are stopped by the majesty of the view. The creek is flowing along on a solid rock bed, while on both sides are veritable mountains of rock.

Clinging precariously to the sides of the steep ascent are trees and shrubbery, and farther up, virgin Pennsylvania hemlock that has never felt the bite of the woodsman's axe. No second growth hemlock this, but virgin timber, sixty and seventy feet high.

At times the trail leads under overhanging shrubbery that forces you to your knees to get through. At other times youp have to go through the stream itself, with the attending danger of skidding on the heavily mossed stones.

Unfortunately we had no cameras. There was the shot when a flock of ruffed grouse rose almost from our feet and winged up through the canyon. Beautiful birds, wild and shy, sounding like a small airplane as they whirred up and away.

Here and there are rock gardens that Nature has been centuries building. Rocks weighing a hundred tons at the base of the natural rock garden, with boulders piled in helter skelter fashion, and over them the cold creek gurgling along.

There ought to be trout in the stream, but there isn't. The water is cold enough to accommodate them, much colder than the Slippery Rock, but all we could see was a lot of minnows.

As you aproach the mouth of the slippery Rock Nature seems to want to give you one last look at what she can do when she is in a careless mood. Huge stones have been tossed about, making a half a dozen streams in a rocky delta and the water does one final dash down the defiles before it hits the Slippery Rock.

It isn't an easy hike, but it's one that is more than worth while. Traffic isn't heavy out there. Our group was the only one in the gorge at the time, nor are there any signs of campers or hikers. Farm boys in the Slippery Rock Township know of the many little pools in the gorge and they swim there, but insofar as the general public is concerned, Hell's Hollow might as well be in Colorado.

There are several things you'll need if you make the trip. Heavy shoes, old clothes, and a pair of feet that will go where you put them. Or if you care to, put a pillow where it will do the most good.

And don't forget to take a foot at the old Lawrence Furnace site as you enter the gorge. Nothing but a huge pile of furnace slag there now, but such furnace slag as you never saw before. Some of it is like black glass and as you stand there looking it over your mind tries to picture the sight when Slippery Rock Township had three furnaces, the Lawrence, the Welleroy and the Hope.

Everything was at hand for the making of iron. The ore used was a native kidney ore, the local was nearby and the limestone. Scores of farmers made money burning charcoal for the furnaces used much of it, and it must have been a sight to see those old crude furnaces turning out iron.

The history of the old Lawrence Furnace is rather vague, at least to this colyum. Surely some one in the county has some information as to when it was built, who built it and how long it operated.

In the meantime, plan to go through Hell's Hollow some afternoon. In some ways it is more attractive than McConnell's Mills, although the beauty is of a slightly different type. It is two miles of scenery that will take you back again.

VACUUM RESTORES VOICE
(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., — While pushing an electric sweeper, Mrs. Frances Payvis, of Nanticoke, who had lost her voice in an attack of influenza two years ago, suffered a shock as the sweeper came in contact with a charged wire. She screamed—and found her voice completely restored.

THE MAN SHE MIGHT HAVE HAD

Going—with just a brief word of farewell! Another romance ended—and still she didn't suspect why

"What have I done to offend you?" she asked with a brave, forced smile .... But how could he mention a fault like "B.O."?

She pocketed her pride. She begged him to tell her what had come between them. The reason for his sudden coolness that night of the dance . . . his abrupt departure now.

So distressed, so unsuspecting! His heart ached with pity, yet he was powerless to console. For how could he tell her that what had cooled his ardor was . . . her unforgivable carelessness about "B. O." (body odor)!

A girl may be "pretty as a picture"—a man handsome as a young god. Yet one hint of "B. O."—and all charm vanishes. If we want to be popular, happy in love, successful in business—we must guard against the slightest possibility of offending.

It's "B. O." weather now!

Blistering noons. Breathless nights. Every day a "scorcher"—so hot we perspire even sitting still. "B.O." flourishes in such weather unless we're constantly on the watch.

A cooling tub—and Lifebuoy. There's your safeguard! Wash and bathe often with this delightful toilet soap. Its copious, cleansing, purifying lather, deodorizes pores—removes every trace of "B.O." Its pleasant, extra-clean scent,—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy gives extra protection.

A simple beauty aid

Guy Bush Hurls One-Hit Contest

Chicago Cubs Pitcher Comes Mighty Near Hurling Perfect Game

DETROIT TIGERS TRIM CLEVELAND

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"Tears such as angels weep" might have been sprinkled all over the city of St. Louis today by Guy Bush, Chicago Cub pitcher, for Bush just missed cracking baseball's hall of fame via the no-hit game route. And against the mighty St. Louis Cardinals, too. George Watkins, Redbird outfielder, poked a roller that accounted for the sole St. Louis safety. Vincent Barton, the young man from Los Angeles, pushed over a homer off Paul Derringer to give the Cubs their 1 to 0 win.

One-Hit Game.

Dick Coffman hurled a one-hit game for the St. Louis Browns as they defeated the Chicago White Sox 1 to 0. A single by Johnny Kerr right thorugh the pitcher's box was the only safety off Coffman. Pat Caraway, who pitches every day in the week and twice on Sunday, held the Brownies to five hits in the opener, annexing it for Chicago, 4 to 2.

Al Simmons hit two homers to win 5 to 3 for the Athletics over the New York Yankees. Connie Mack had to call on Walberg to relieve Mahaffey in the seventh and finally Lefty Grove trotted out to save the day.

Simmons' homers were Nos. 18 and 19, far behind Babe Ruth, but he now leads all the hitters, batting .382, two points ahead of Ruth.

Giants Beat Dodgers.

The Giants hopped all over Freddy Heimach, scoring four runs in the opening inning, and finally stowing away the Brooklyn Robins 9 to 4. Fitzsimmons gave ten hits to the flock but managed to stagger through the distance.

Manush smashed the first ball hurled at him in the tenth for a hit into deep center, scoring Brown in a 4 to 3 win for Washington over the Boston Ruddy Sox.

Larry Benton mastered the Pirate big sticks, giving the Cincy Reds a 6 to 2 triumph in the opener, while Brame came back in the finale to take one for Pittsburgh 8 to 4.

Stone garnered four hits and all the other Detroit hitters spent a very pleasant afternoon as they climbed over three Cleveland hurlers for 14 safeties, bagging it 9 to 8.

The Boston Braves slowed up the near-cellar Phillies, taking a double header. Ed Brandt won his 14th skirmish in the opener, 5 to 4, and Willie Sherdel held the Phils to seven hits to account for the vesper, 6 to 3.

Battlers Training For Coming Bouts

Lefty Arnold To Get Chance To Show Ability Against Kropac

FIVE OTHER TILTS ON AUGUST 17 CARD

New Castle glove-tossers will get a chance to strut their stuff against out-of-town fighters when six four round bouts are served patrons of hit-and-miss next Monday night at the Castle bowl.

The six battles were arranged yesterday. On the calendar are fighters from Akron, Warren and this city. One of the boys who now hangs up his 'kelly' at Akron formerly resided at Pulaski.

There will be two "naturals" among the six bouts as Bill Donnelli and Homer Gray have signed to box at 163 pounds and Vito Mangine will attempt to curb the energetic punching of Willie Stribling at 135 pounds.

The other bouts follow:

Smickey Ambrose, Warren, O., vs Clyde Merrine, Akron, 162.

Ray Ritchie, New Castle, vs Eddie Elridge, Akron, 122 pounds.

Billy Mido, New Castle vs Young Scotty, Akron, formerly of Pulaski, 120 pounds.

Lefty Arnold, New Castle vs Paul Kropac, Akron, 140 pounds.

Ambrose and Merriner are pretty fair fighters according to their respective managers, Charley Gruver and Mickey Forkins. Gruver hails from Akron and Forkins hold forth at Warren.

Kropac is said to be a punchin' machine and as Lefty Arnold isn't short on 'sock' there ought to be plenty of action from bell to bell. These two are training hard as Lefty still believes he is going somewhere in pugilism.

The six four rounders will be staged at abbreviated prices and with this slash it is believed that there will be a crowd of at least 1,500 to $2,000 when the bell rings.

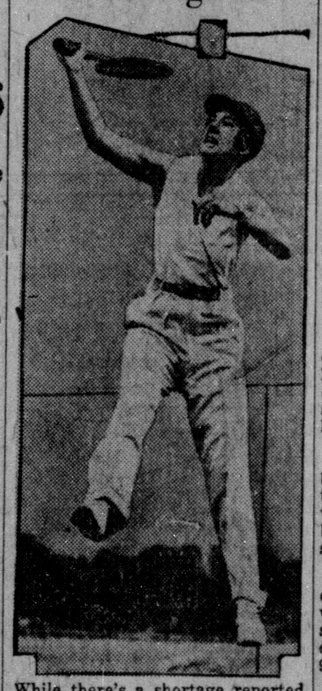
No Shortage Here



While there's a shortage reported in some parts of the giddy old world, there's none here, either in clothes or action. American tennis players, especially women, are agitated over the report that tennis shorts are the vogue. But British women have introduced a new style—by wearing the regulation length trousers, made of light flannel, and with sleeveless blouses. This leap was made at London.

Wampum Defeats Bessemer Nine, 9-1

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Arthur Newton and Peter Gavuzzi won the 500 miles run from Montreal to Quebec and return and with the victory they received $3,000 first prize money. They piled up an early lead and then coasted to victory.

With the abbreviated cost of ducats it looks as though the bowl will have another good crowd next Monday night when the glove-tossers shave each other with encased horsehair.

The Wightman tennis cup is back in the United States, due to the Helens Moody and Jacobs who won 5-2 at Forest Hills. In the doubles, however, Britain maintained supremacy.

Al Burrell, 28, Columbus auto race driver was killed at Fort Wayne when his auto brushed against a skidding machine ahead and turned over. His machine was hitting a 90 mile per hour clip.

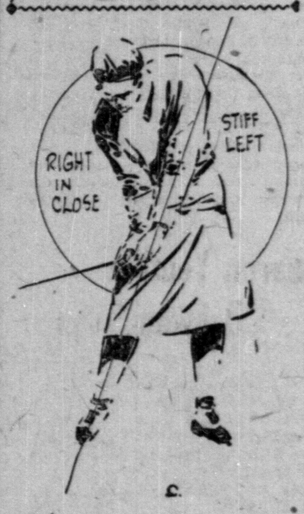
Helen Hicks Is Good Example of Rigid Left Arm

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer



NUMBER 54

Concerning the stiff left arm, it seems we must take our lessons from the women golfers.

They, in the first place, are successful because of this factor.

The average woman golfer has not the wrists and punch to send a ball as far as the male and consequently must rely on some trick of the swing in order to get the ball down the fairway close enough for a second or an accurate third shot. Therefore, they are quicker in learning the value of a stiff left arm.

You will note in the illustration (Miss Helen Hicks) how she sticks to that stiff controling left arm. She grooves the club with the left and hits with the right.

The male golfer tries to punch them out with the hands trusting his strength will get the club through for a good ball.

The stiff left arm is the foundation of the golf swing and nine golfers out of 10 fail to see the value of this arm position until they have played three or four years.

If you would do nothnig else but better your hand you could cut 10 strokes off your game in easy stages.

Forget everything but the stiff and rigid left for a few days and notice the improvement in your game.

Athletics-Cards Appear "Safe"

Cubs And Washington Will Have Hard Time Overtaking League Leaders

SEASON IS FAST NEARING FINISH

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The passing of another week brought the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics just so much closer to another pennant today.

Neither team lost ground to their closest rivals during the past seven days and the latter are now faced by the following figures:

If the Cardinals play .500 ball during their 46 remaining games winding up with a total of 91 victories and 63 defeats, the New York Giants must capture34 of their 50 remaining contests—a .680 pace—to beat them. Chicago's Cubs, practically tied with the Giants for second place, eight games behind the champions, are faced with an equally tough assignment.

Should the Cards maintain their present gait of .630, winding up with 97 wins and 57 losses, the Giants would have to grab 40 of their 50 games—or play at on .800 pace—to win the pennant.

The Athletics, with 47 games left to play in the American league, have an even easier task than the Cardinals. If the Mackmen slump to the extent of playing .500 ball from now on, which would give them 101 victories for the year against 53 defeats, Washington will have to win 36 games out of 49, or travel at a .735 clip, to overhaul them.

Banner Week for Hurlers

Going further with the reducto ad absurdium, as we saw on the soap box:

If the Athletics continue to breeze along at their present .720 pace, rounding out the schedule with 111 victories and 43 defeats, the Senators would have to win 46 games while losing only three in order to capture the flag.

Both the A's and Senators won three games and lost two during the past seven days. The Yankees, who distinguished themselves by winning two out of three from Philadelphia, captured four of their six starts, as did Detroit. The White Sox grabbed five out of eight and went into sixth place, passing the Red Sox. The latter lost five out of six and are likely to be back again with Moses and the sauerkraut when the final curtain falls.

The Cardinals picked up half a game on the Giants by winning four out of six while the McGrawmen won four and lost three. Chicago [illegible] half a game on St. Louis, winning five and losing two. Brooklyn [illegible] four times in seven games, fell two more games behind the Cubs.

It was a banner week for the pitchers, with Bob Burke of Washington hurling a no-hit, no run classic on Saturday and Guy Bush of the Cubs and Dick Coffman of the Browns turning in one-hit performances yesterday.

Ball Yard Banter

The passing of Marty Berghammer as manager of the Malwaukee Brewers (St. Louis Brown's subsidiary) is the first change of pilots in the American association this season, but wise observers of doings in the huge midwestern minor league are sure it isn't the last one.

* * *

Three others, possibly more, are slated for the skids, they say.

Why any of the Association pilots should get the boot this season is hard for anyone not fully cognizant of the inner affairs of the league to understand. The Association since April has had one of the tightest, thrillingest, hectic pennant battles in baseball history.

* * *

Until recently all eight teams had a chance to get in the running.

* *

Columbus, Toledo and Kansas City are the three other outfits which may shift managers before the 1932 campaign begins. Columbus and Kansas City have been in-and-outers while Toledo trails. Nemo Liebold is now Columbus' pilot, Casey Stengel runs the Mudhens and Uncle Ed Zwilling manages the K. C. Blues.

Incidentally, Frank O'Rourke, has succeeded Berghammer.

O'Rourke, of course, is of the Browns. He is known for his activities as a major league outfielder years ago. He's in a good spot now. The Brewsters are just outside of the first division and if he brings them in, his will be the credit. If the Milwaukee Club drops a peg or two it may be reasoned the players and the new manager hadn't sufficient time to adjust their relationship to create a smooth-running team.

SPYING ON SPORTS

Hitless Wonders

Those St. Loo Birds miss, fan or pop
Their average is thin,
How come these babies are on top?
Secret: It's curves that win!

Among the current phenomena now visible on the baseball scene are the batting averages of the chesty Cardinals from St. Louis.

The Red Birds, emulating their late series rivals, the potent Philadelphia Athletics, are making monkeys out of seven National league clubs. They have moved and are moving so far ahead of the rest of the circuit that they may be forced to play out the rest of the schedule by mail.

Yet, the Cardinal batting average is as thin as a tardy husband's excuse.

Close study of the St. Louisan's behavior at the plate reveals the startling fact that Chick Hafey, bespectacled fly chaser, is the lone Red Bird hammering the ball at a better than .300 clip. And Chick is just barely on the right side of that vital line at this writing.

How can a major league ball club get a lead and a big lead over all rivals when its batting average is flatter than a goblin's shadow?

Pitching, fielding, aggressiveness. There you have it. The triple secret of St. Louis's hitless success.

Pitching has just about won another flag for St. Louis. Stellar hurling by Jess Haines, Paul Derringer, Burleigh Grimes, Bill Hallahan and Lindsey has stamped this staff as the best in the league.

In fielding the Cards have ranked just below the Cubs, the league leaders in this division of the game.

As for aggressiveness the Cards are notorious as winners of close games. They've copped many one-run decisions this year. Only an aggressive, courageous outfit consistently wins the tight games.

Add to these Cardinal virtues the shrewd brain of Gabby Street and you've got your answer to why St. Louis wins without socking the ball all over and out of the lot.

NEW YORK STOCKS

DECLINING COTTON DOMINATES STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Stocks were largely under the dominance of the weak Cotton situation and car loadings as the new week started. Cotton broke nearly $7 a bale in New York and Liverpool as the direct response to the governments report, showing a crop of 15½ million bales and specialties lost from 1 to 3 points. For the most part the opening prices were the lowest of the forenoon period, and moderate recoveries were recorded under the dullest and narrowest of trading.

New Haven, Atchison and other well known rails were under selling pressure in the first hour. New Haven at 56 showed a new loss of 2½ points, while Atchison was down the same distance and New York Central dropped fractionally. Union Pacific at 140 showed a reaction of 3 points from Saturday's close. Among the high priced specialties Allied Chemical lost 2 points and Eastman Kodak 2½. United States Steel broke under 85 for a loss of 1⅛.

Consolidated Gas led a rally in the Public Utility stocks, and after an early dip of 89¾, rose to 91. The Power and Light stocks were inclined to follow the lead of "big gas," but trading in this as in other sections of the market was extremely sluggish and in no way changed from the last week or two. The low-priced mining stocks were in fairly good form, with Alaska Juneau in demand. International Nickel was well bought around 12½.

As the noon period approached, traders are inclined to await the steel corporation's monthly figures on forward tonnage and trading in all sections of the market was again restricted to a small number of the favorites. Money was in good supply and bond prices steady.

TRIPLE CRASH INJURES THREE

Mrs. Pierce, is that Waskin did not observe the stop sign regulation, as he drove into North Liberty street from Mahoning avenue and that he was attempting to cross between their respective machines as they were enroute in opposite directions. On the other hand Waskin insists in his report that he did make the stop. The cars of Clark and Waskin came together and that of Mrs. Pierce crashed into the left side of the Waskin car, when unable to avoid a collision.

Officers Augostine and Kennedy and Lieutenant Hillers investigated the case and found that Waskin was operating his machine without a drivers license and he was required to put up a fifteen dollar forfeit for his appearance this morning, when he was turned over to the state highway patrol and taken before Alderman O. H. P. Green, where he paid a fine of $15 for driving without drivers license.

COMMUNISTS FAIL IN REFERENDUM TO OUST PREMIER

the overthrow of the coalition cabinet of Premier Braun.

Fewer than 10,000,000 citizens, or only 37 per cent, voted for dissolution whereas 13,500,000 votes were necessary for the referendum to succeed. Less than 500,000 voted against dissolution.

The balloting was the occasion of bloody rioting between Communists and Fascists and the list of dead may run as high as eighteen. Scores of both factions, along with some innocent bystanders, were in hospitals today suffering from wounds received during the fighting.

At the time, police occupied Karl Liebknecht house, headquarters of the Communist party in Berlin, and gave unmistakable intention of taking further drastic measures either to wipe out the Red organization entirely or render it incapable of repeating yesterday's outrages.

Reds Thought Guilty.

Police made no secret of the fact that they considered the Reds responsible for the outrages. Street battles throughout Prussia and the bombing of the Basle-Berlin express, on which the terrorists apparently believed Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius were returning from Rome, gave Germany one of the bloodiest days in its sanguinary postwar political history.

The train bombing occurred at Juerterbog, about 40 miles south of Berlin. A grenade placed beneath the tracks and electrically wired to a contact station hidden in the doows nearby, blew nine cars from the track and down a sixty-foot embankment, injuring eighty-three passengers, ten of them seriously.

On a telegraph pole was found nailed a copy of the National Socialist (Fascist) newspaper Der Angriff, with the words: "Attention! Attention! Assault! Long live the revolution!" inscribed across the front page. Police believe the bombing was the work of Communists who used this means of trying to shift the blame on the Nazis.

Police found further evidence of the Red terrorist organization's efforts in placards plastered throughout the workers district of the east end threatening death to two policemen for every Communist killed in yesterday's rioting.

The more you observe mankind the more you respect the old-time reformer who said cigarettes would addle the brains.

Says Cal May Run

Col. James F. Coupal, (above), formerly White House physician during the administration of President Coolidge, and personal physician to the Coolidge family since leaving the Executive Mansion has stated in a newspaper article that Coolidge will run for the presidency in 1932 if drafted by his party.

Father Of Seven Children Killed

(International News Service)

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 10.—Ernest Cravenor, 33, of Edgewood, near here, a father of seven children, died in the local hospital today from a broken neck suffered when his automobile collided with another on the Ford City-Kittanning road yesterday.

G. Gillottie, of Struthers, O., driver of the other machine, was held here pending an inquest. He was alleged to have pulled out onto the highway from a service station into the path of Cravenor's machine.

Post And Gatty Resume Flight

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 10.—Undaunted by rain and a low ceiling, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round-the-world fliers, hopped off at 12:03 p. m. (E. D. T.) from the government airport here today for New York City.

The globe-circling airmen were forced down here late yesterday by bad weather they encountered over Ohio and were unable to ride out as the squall moved east through the Pennsylvania mountains.

PROBE OPENS IN FATAL CRASH OF AIRWAYS PLANE

dle division of the airways organization. The crash occurred a few minutes after the plane took off from the Lunken airport.

Strikes River Bank

Witnesses said they saw a propeller fly off one of the three motors of the Ford ship. The motor itself then tore itself away from the plane.

At an altitude of less than 500 feet the pilot cast about for a landing place. He sought to reach a sandbar in the Little Miami river, near the airport. His struggle with the controls was in vain.

The ship crashed into the river bank, nosing over, and the passenger cabin crumpled like tissue paper.

Attains Stardom

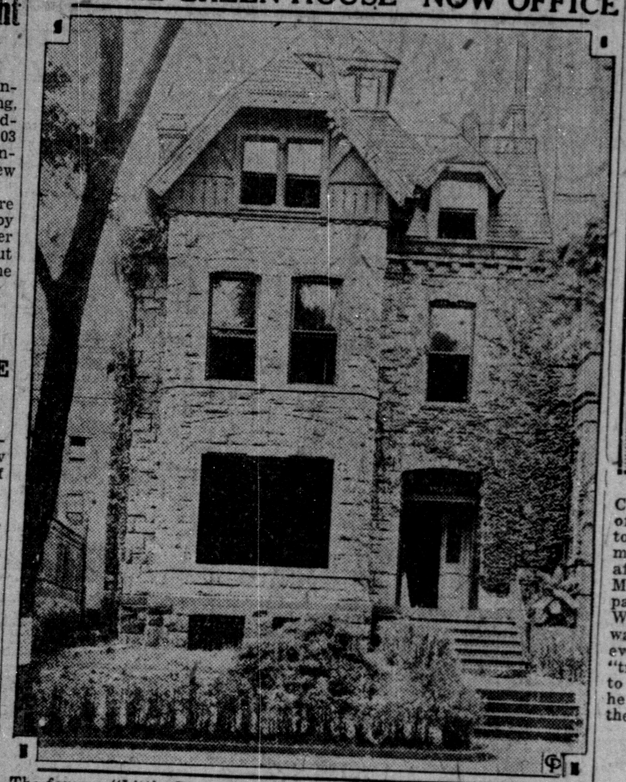
Appointed to be Deputy Sheriff, Mrs. Annie O'Hara, of Attleboro, is the first woman to be so honored in Massachusetts. Mrs. O'Hara, who has just received her commission, can handle a gun expertly, but does not intend to carry one. She hopes that she'll never be called upon to deal harshly with a criminal.

A gravestone in Sleepy Hollow in Tarrytown, N. Y., marks the resting place of Katrina Van Tassel, immortalized by Washington Irving.

Picked as Future American

Congressman Robert Low Bacon, Republican, of New York, named as the typical American of the future by eminent anthropologists of Washington, D. C., was reported to be incensed when he learned of his selection. The anthropologists, however, in claiming that the American of the future will be a tall, ruddy-faced, sandy-haired and well-built individual, declare that Congressman Bacon, who lives at Old Westbury, L. I., is the exact type of which they speak. The "typical American" is shown with his two daughters, Virginia and Martha, and (insert) Mrs. Bacon.

"LITTLE GREEN HOUSE" NOW OFFICE



The famous ("Little Green House" on K street, Washington, where the late President Harding often put in an appearance during the years he spent in the capital, is being transformed. It is being remodeled. It often is pointed out to visitors.

American Princess Home

Recently married in London, Eng., at a quiet civil ceremony, Prince Johann Du Lichtenstein and his American wife, the former Aleen McFarlane, of New York and Austin, Texas, are shown above as they arrived in New York on the motorship Lafayette for their honeymoon in the United States. The couple will spend some time in the metropolis, after which they will visit the bride's home in Texas, where the McFarlanes were cattle barons.

Unheralded

In this age of ballyhoo it is a distinct novelty to see a feat of any importance attempted without reams of advance publicity. Hence the announcement from Greenland that Parker Cramer, American aviator, would attempt to blaze an air trail to Copenhagen, Denmark, after having flown from Detroit to the land of icy mountains without benefit of fanfare, has caused no small degree of surprise in aviation circles. Cramer, with Bert Hassell, of Rockford, Ill., attempted a flight from Rockford to Stockholm in 1928. After being missing for two weeks they were found in Greenland.

Free for Year

Convicted in 1925 of the murder of Briggs Chumley, Claude Newton is shown above with his mother, Mrs. Annie Newton, just after his release from prison in McAlester, Okla. Newton was paroled for one year by Governor William Murray. Although he always insisted on his innocence, even under the influence of the "truth serum," Newton will have to return to prison in 1932, when he will once more appear before the peace officers in an attempt to secure permanent release.

New Speed Role

Visiting the U. S. Military Academy, at West Point, with a group of notable fliers to observe Aviation Day, Captain Frank Hawks, speed flying champion, was introduced to the game of lacrosse, in which speed is an asset. Above is the famous flyer learning how to swing a mean net.

Downed by Rebels

While on a bombing expedition against a Sandino mountain camp in Nicaragua, the plane piloted by Sergt. Gordon Heritage (above), U. S. Marines, was shot down by rebel gunfire and crashed in a desolate jungle. After destroying his plane by fire, Heritage and his co-flier cut their way through the dense jungle with machetes and safely reached the Marine camp.

The ladies may act mannish and get away with it, but a man wouldn't last long if he acted that way.

Here's a Hot One

Despite the fact that he apparently has another pennant in the well-known bag by virtue of a large lead, Connie Mack, lanky, grey-thatched director of the destinies of the champion Athletics, perspires occasionally. Not from anxiety, though. It's the heat. Photo was made at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, when Connie's boys took two games from the Senators.

Mrs. Sarah J. Speck, 96, Says "To Keep Moving, And You Won't Get Old"

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.— Keep moving, keep busy and old age will never get you believes Mrs. Sarah J. Speck, who recently celebrated her 96th birthday anniversary here.

Mrs. Speck, who has lived in and near Philadelphia all her life, believes action and interest in life and its current are the best deterrents to incapacities of age. She reads newspapers daily, is a staunch Republican and hasn't missed voting in the past six years. She also thinks aviation is wonderful—from the ground.

Despite her enthusiasm for air transportation, members of her family said, she has refused several times to go aloft in a plane.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

The fact that this week on Wednesday, that the twenty-fifth annual picnic of Old Time residents of this city and Lawrence county will be held at Cascade Park recalls to memory some of the earlier gatherings of the Old Timers, their descendants and families. Designed as a means of getting together former residents, whose families resided here prior to the civil war, it has been such a success that it is known throughout the length and breadth of this country, due to the fact that at some time or other, some person, who has participated in these gatherings, has been or is now located in some other section of the country and remembers the pleasant time that he or she had at one of these affairs. When the first of these affairs was held Friday, August 23, 1907, a crowd of seven thousand people attended, a record crowd for those days in this community. Gathered at this original event were persons of every status of life, color, creed and politics, for one purpose, that of renewing old time acquaintanceships and recalling things that had happened in earlier days and to advance the interests of New Castle. The next year there was 11,000 people in attendance. As time has progressed, the attendance had fluctuated, generally due to weather conditions. But there has always been in attendance on each of these occasions, hundreds of former residents from faraway California and other points at a distance, who journeyed all the way back here for the purpose of enjoying the festivities of this greatest of days each year at Cascade Park. There has always been a certain pardonable pride on the part of those eligible to call themselves old timers, either on account of age or because of being descendants and the longer these events continue, the more this may be expected. If the weather man permits, Wednesday of this week, should see another record breaking attendance and all should join in to make it the success that it should be.

Lawrence School Reunion August 12

Plans Completed For Lawrence School Reunion At Cascade Park On August 12th

A committee meeting for the Lawrence School reunion was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Mina L. Waldaman on Adams street, when all plans were completed for the first gathering.

Miss Waldman extends appreciation to all persons who have cooperated with her in securing the names and addresses of all the former students and teachers of this institution.

Over two-hundred cards have been mailed in the city, and to those living out of the city. A large attendance is expected.

Those who did not receive a card are asked to attend as some of the addresses were not available.

The picnic is to begin at 6 o'clock in the grove at Cascade Park, and will be in the form of a tureen dinner, on Wednesday, August 12. All are asked to put in their appearance as early as possible.

Following the dinner, Miss Waldman will introduce all the teachers beginning with those that taught in 1900, the first year the school was built, and each will give a little toast. This affair will be quite interesting due to the fact that some of the pupils and teachers haven't seen each other for several years.

The election of officers for next year will follow. There will not be any races or contests held on this date, as it is the first reunion of this school, and most of the time will undoubtedly be spent in long sessions, renewing old friendships and making new ones.

Later in the evening, dancing and other amusements will be enjoyed by members and their families.

Those wishing any further information will call either Miss Waldman on Adams street or Miss Amelia Komarc of Harrison street.

Milk Sick Disease Is Now Rare

Good Detective Story Material In Strange Poisoning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Milk Sickness

Here is a very interesting disease and fortunately rare. It is the poisoning of humans with a vegetable poison which is contained in the milk of cows who have grazed on certain plants.

It is so rare that many physicians have never seen a case. I heard a physician lecture on the subject last year before the Illinois State Medical association. He had been lecturing on the subject many years, trying to impress people with the necessity of destroying the weeds dangers of the disease and the necessity of destroying the weeds which cause it.

These are two plants—the white snake root and the rayless goldenrod. The poison they contain has been named trematol. It causes a serious state of illness in both cattle and man. In cattle the disease is called the trembles on account of the incessant twitching and trembling of the muscles. In man it may result from drinking the milk or eating butter, cheese or the meat of poisoned cows. The poison is destroyed by heat, but not by the heat reached in pasteurization of milk.

White snake root grows mostly in wooded country. It does not grow well in bright sunlight. When trees and undergrowth are cut out enough to allow blue grass to grow, the grass will drive out the snake root. It grows abundantly in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys as far east as North Carolina. The rayless goldenrod is an inhabitant of the plains of Colorado, Texas and the southwest.

The disease occurs only in those cattle which are allowed to graze widely and in unselected pasture lands. It is a rare disease nowadays and education of the public and the dairy farmer has done much to cut down the incidence. The early settlers of the Middle West, however, were often poisoned. Herndon, in his "Life of Lincoln," says:

"In the fall of 1818 the scantily-settled region in the vicinity of Pigeon Creek (Indiana)—where the Lincolns lived—suffered a visitation of that dread disease common in the West in the early days and known in the vernacular of the early days as milk-sick! . . . Abe's mother had fallen a victim of the insidious disease. Her sufferings, however, were destined to be of brief duration. Within a week, she too, rested from her labors."

It is certainly one of the queerest and most mysterious of human diseases. I have often thought that a good detective story could be written around it. In the story the villain would feed the family cow of his victim some white snake root and in this way accomplish the desired dispatch. Such a crime would stagger the powers even of Philo Vance. I do not write detective stories myself, so turn the idea over to the proper practitioners.

"Battle Of Paris" To Be Re-Enacted

Recalling Memories Of Paris In War Days Will Be Legion Convention Feature

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Aug 10.—Recalling memories of absences (with or without leave) the "Battle of Paris" which will be staged at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion here, August 20 to 22, is expected to be a feature drawing hundreds of the veterans.

The "Battle of Paris," depicting the experiences of American soldiers in the French capital during the World War, will be staged at the Wolf Junior High School playground. Typical Parisian buildings will be erected and all the traditional novelistic accompaniments—Apaches, midinettes, gendarmes, cocottes, dancers, waiters and whatnot—will take part.

The "battle" will be under the direction of H. H. Harding, of Uniontown, who developed the entertainment for the LaRayette Post of that city.

The production will open on August 18 and will continue through the convention, to give all visiting Legionnaires and visitors a chance to see it.

Dear Brother Lion:—

There was insufficient time last Tuesday for Lion Marvin to give his report of the international convention so we will hear from him tomorrow.

The Conneaut Lake committee must know how many will be attending the district meeting next Saturday, the 15th. Lion Marvin will have to report Tuesday P. M.
